S. C. SALTER

Friends and neighbors were grieved to learn of the death of S. C. Salter, who has resided in Ione for the past ten years and who with the help of his wife operated the Salter Hatchery business until failing health forced them to discontinue it two years ago.

Silas Salter was born Oct. 15, 1873 at Three Rivers, Mich. and died Jan. 19, 1945 at Portland Ore. His parents were James and Mary Salter and his early years were spent in Nebraska where he married Adie F. Dodge 46 years ago. Six children were born to them.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Hugh G. Salter of Ione, four daughters, Lela S. Brown, Ione; Mary Lang, Sutherlin, Ore.; Ruby Sturgiel, Bremerton, Wash.; Vivian Greiner, Richmond, Calif., also 18 grandchildren.

Mr. Salter painted many houses in Ione and vicinity and honey from his apiary has been on the market for many years.

WORD OF APPRECIATION

Better—or Just as Good?

MOST of us aren't satisfied with buying—or growing or manufacturing—something that's "just as good." We want something better. And, in most cases, that something better comes through competition.

For competition—real competition—is something besides two people making, or offering for sale, the same goods or services. It involves a lot more. And anybody who serves the public prospers because he has something better to offer—whether it's quality, prices, service, or just a clean appearance and a pleasant smile.

Real competition doesn't come from punitive taxes, or subsidies, or any other sort of horse-race handicapping to make everybody in business start even. For it isn't equality that's needed; it's the inequalities that are the true measure of progress.

Real competition is the kind that encourages the manufacturer, the farmer, or business man to get his quality up, his costs down, and to develop new things his customers want. It's this kind of competition that produces something better rather than something just as good—that insures to the public a steady increase in the value it gets for its money. *General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Better MEATS FOR BETTER HEALTH

All meat cuts can't possibly be the best—some are choice, others are good, and some—shall we say indifferent?—yet all have a certain food value and form the foundation for good meals.

It is not difficult for you to get better meats, for they are always available here. Choice animals, properly processed, give you the advantage of buying "the best the market affords", makes your precious points go farther and helps you maintain a high working efficiency.
