

$100 Fine Imposed For Intoxication

For being intoxicated in a public place, Marion Earl Redding was sentenced to pay a $100 fine and spend 50 days in the county jail when taken before Justice J. O. Hager Saturday. The jail sentence was later suspended but it will be difficult for Redding to secure the intoxicating fluid since the justice issued an order of interdiction, meaning, in the parlance of the "street", that he is "siwashed."

Redding was picked up by State Officer Edgar Albert and turned over to local authorities. He was charged with disorderly conduct while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. He had been refused beer at a local dispensary but it is stated that someone more sympathetic than the bartender got a bottle of the cheering brew and helped him a little farther towards the justice's office. His Oregon liquor license has been cancelled.

ON BUSINESS TRIP

Gus Nikander spent several days in Portland this week buying new stock for the Case Furniture company.

Housing . . .

Lack of adequate housing facilities was working a hardship on the company inasmuch as mill hands could secure good jobs in other plants located where housing was more plentiful and of a higher order. This was causing discontent among local workers, several of whom moved away, creating a labor shortage at the plant and a consequent steady campaign for replacements. The city authorities and the chamber of commerce entered into the picture in an effort to secure more and better housing. The city took steps to regain control of property leased to the federal government for the CCC camp and after obtaining an agreement paramount to a relinquishment, entered into a contract with the Heppner Lumber company whereby the company leased buildings on the city property and converted some of them into apartments. These were readily occupied and still the demand for houses has not been met.

It is expected that several people will take advantage of this opportunity to construct new houses, some of them for homes, others for rent. Numerous conversion jobs are under way or have been recently completed under a previous approval, but aside from the special permission granted Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rosewall, no other new construction has been granted here for the duration.

Basketball . . .

Although this game dispelled all hopes of the league championship for the Mustangs, it does not eliminate their chances to go to the district tournament. Provision has been made for the two teams that finish first and second in the final league standings to go to the district tournament at John Day. League standings at present are as follows: Umatilla is tops with one loss, Boardman second with two defeats, and Heppner third with three defeats. Ione and Irrigon, other league members, have been eliminated by too numerous losses.

Heppner's only hope now lies in the fact that Umatilla and Boardman have a game yet to play in which these two teams tangle at Umatilla Friday night. Should Umatilla, the favorite, win, Heppner and Boardman would be tied for second place with three defeats each. This would necessitate a playoff game on a neutral floor. On the other hand, should Boardman defeat Umatilla, Heppner immediately is eliminated.

Friday night, while praying for Umatilla to win, Heppner plays a double-header with Lexington and the strong Arlington team.

Americanism to Be Auxiliary Theme

Americanism will be the theme of the Legion auxiliary program at the regular meeting of the group Monday evening in the Legion hall. There will also be a talk on Girls State and following the program the auxiliary will join with the Legion for refreshments and a social time.

Mrs. K. K. Blake, national defense chairman, is preparing a display to be placed in the window at Humphreys drug store next week, that being national defense week in the Auxiliary.

The auxiliary sorted and packed more than one ton of clothing and shoes for Russian relief. The material was gathered principally by school children of the county and brought to the Red Cross rooms where the packing and tying were done.
