

Assembling Crew For Timber Road

An engineer from the Bureau of public roads has been in the county several days trying to assemble a crew to finish the logging road started last year for the Heppner Lumber company across Jones Prairie. Work had to be abandoned quite early in the season due to the unusual weather conditions. The engineer visited the local high school and presented students with an outline of the type of work to be done, calling for volunteers. Two boys accepted jobs for the summer, Jack Parrish and Ted Ferguson.

Local Group Stays In W. G. Auxiliary

A regular meeting of the Morrow County Woolgrowers' auxiliary was held Friday, May 4. A no-hostess luncheon preceded the business meeting, and was followed by a fashion show presented by Mrs. Hazel Carlson, home economics instructor at Heppner high school. Frocks and pajamas made by themselves were modeled by 14 high school girls, with poems describing each read by Coleen Miller and a soft piano accompaniment by Joan Corwin.

At the business meeting, which was presided over by President Gen McIntyre, it was decided to retain full membership in the Woolgrowers auxiliary and to devote as much time as possible to civic work. With an effort to interest new members, a tea will be given the second Friday in June at the Orville Smith home, to which any one interested in learning the work and aims of the Woolgrowers Auxiliary is most cordially invited to attend.
