Up in the locomotive cab of your train sits a man you seldom see. Perhaps you never catch a glimpse of him although he is responsible for taking you to your destination.

Union Pacific, like other railroads, has certain exacting requirements for an engineer. The man who pilots a passenger or freight locomotive has served years as a fireman... knows the function of a locomotive's many parts... is thoroughly familiar with operating rules... has passed a rigid physical examination and been periodically re-examined. In short, he is well qualified, both mentally and physically, to handle his job.

Care in selecting and training employees has been a big factor in establishing the enviable Union Pacific record for safe and dependable transportation over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the mid-West and the Pacific Coast.

Another "man you seldom see" is many miles away, doing his part to speed total victory. Let's bring him home—and quickly. You can help by buying bonds—saving them—and then buying more.

THE PROGRESSIVE UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Songs for a Better World

We were sitting around the embers of the campfire's barbecue last Saturday night, finishing our beer and hot dogs, while Ed strummed the guitar... picking out old, friendly songs.

Soon everyone was singing. The harmony wasn't too good... but the spirit was—a spirit of friendship and good humor.

And it made me think how music—music of the people—overcomes barriers of prejudice and intolerance. A Yankee folksong or an English carol or a Southern melody—they all speak a common language of the heart... bind folks together... help us forget our grudges.

From where I sit, music can help to make the whole world kin. Maybe we ought to have a lot more of it... informal sings around the fire, and in the home. And it's sure true that a mellow glass of beer fits into the picture. It just naturally goes with that kind of music.
