

/// Addition . . .

the project. This has been a pet project with the mayor for some time and to bring it to a workable state he has prepared a drawing for a nine-block addition which he displayed at Monday's meeting. One block would be reserved for a playground and park.

All street grading, paving, sidewalk building, curbing, laying of water pipe, sewage and drainage and underground service wires (telephone and electric) would be done before lots were placed on sale. Should the project be started in the near future. Mayor Turner felt quite certain that arrangements could be made to use water from the county's reservoir, which would be slightly higher than the proposed addition, until the city's projected new well is in production. original town of Heppner, was laid out in six blocks. Since that time 32 additions have been made and these overlap one another in such a manner that abstractors have all but gone dippy trying to get proper descriptions. It is the mayor's belief that future additions will have to be made outside present town limits and he urges development of the hill project as a good beginning toward expansion of the town's limits and population. He stated that an effort will be made to extend the limits to include several outlying districts enjoying water and fire protection facilities without paying city taxes.

Guests introduced included Lt. Jack Forsythe, introduced by his father, B. C. Forsythe, and Lake and Til Beckner, introduced by Dr. A. D. McMurdo.

Conley Lanham will have charge of the program next Monday when Queen Colleen and her princesses will be guests of the chamber of commerce.
