

Forest and Range . .

John Brosnan visited the Forest service office recently to attend to business regarding grazing allotment on national forest lands.

Mr. Ferguson of the Soil Conservation service was in Heppner recently making arrangements regarding the establishment of a permanent SCS office here.

A meeting of the U. S. D. A. council was held Tuesday afternoon in the county agent's office. Plans are being formulated for the pending drive to conserve food for the famine in foreign countries.

Ellis Carlson returned to Heppner Tuesday evening from a two day trip to Pomeroy, Wash.

Ranger Jorgensen spent last week participating in the annual rangers' meeting in Pendleton. Ranger district work plans were revised to bring them up to date. It is the policy of the forest service to make plans for all foreseeable work for the coming years and revise these plans as changing circumstances and appropriations make necessary. Planning the work in this manner provides opportunity for savings in manpower and money. Tentative plans were made to rebuild Ar buckle Lookout this spring if an experienced carpenter can be found.

Mr. Dunford who is a forester for Kinzua Pine Mills called at the office to discuss leasing of company owned land to stockmen for grazing.

If present weather conditions do not change before April 20 fishermen are going to have a hard time getting into the mountains on opening day.

Cleve Van Schoiack was an office visitor Tuesday. He called to discuss grazing business with Ranger Jorgensen.

The army recruiting office in Pendleton announced the enlistments of John L. Pickens of Heppner, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pickens of Susanville, Calif.; Harry L. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Green, Heppner, and Thomas J. Doherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Doherty, Ione. Green and Doherty joined for 18 months enlistment. Pickens enlisted for three years and was therefore able to pick his own assignment, which is to serve in the Signal Corps for duty in the European theater. Pickens and Green attended Heppner high school and Doherty attended Ione high school.

HERE FROM MONTANA

Mrs. Ella Wilson and son, Pfc Charles T. Wilson, are guests of Mrs. Wilson's sister, Mrs. Nellie Anderson. Mrs. Wilson is interested with Mrs. Anderson in the former Curran's Ladies Ready-to-Wear store here but will not come to Heppner to stay until a later date. Her son has re-enlisted in the army and will attend a school for meteorology and his mother will stay near him until he finishes the course.

Mr. and Mrs. William Instone arrived in Heppner from Hillsboro Wednesday. Traveling with a house trailer the Instones are not faced with housing shortages and can come and go as they please.

Court Speaks on Damage to Roads

The county court takes this opportunity to notify the public that it is unlawful for any person to haul or drag any heavy materials over county roads, thereby damaging the roads. Recently a citizen of the county was fined in the justice court for damaging a county road with disc plows. Due to many handicaps it is very difficult to keep roads in good condition and the county court is sure that all persons will co-operate in this work especially when it is known that roads so damaged add to the taxpayers' cost in road maintenance. It is true that equipment must be moved from one operation to another but it can be done without tearing up the roads. The court is confident that everyone will appreciate this fact and that it will not be necessary to prosecute others to enforce this law.

No stock guards can be installed on any county road without permission of the county court. If and when such permission is granted the stock guards must be installed at petitioner's expense and according to specifications of court; they must also be maintained by the party installing stock guards.

SCHOOL BOARD ASSOCIATION HOLDS ORGANIZATION MEET

Morrow county association of boards held its first meeting at the Lexington school house Wednesday evening. Details of organization were threshed out and officers elected for the coming fiscal year.

The officers are Harold Becket, president; Russell Moore of Pine City district, vice president and Miss Leta Humphreys secretary-treasurer. Committee chairmen will serve with the officers to make up the executive committee.

The primary purpose of the new organization, like that of the state association which it will support, is the seeking of state aid for schools. A committee will be set up to prepare and pass out information on legislation now pending for that purpose.

It is expected that through the association close cooperation can be given in the matter of teachers' salaries and other problems peculiar to school boards.

Five of the nine districts now having schools were represented at the meeting. They were Heppner, Lexington, Ione, Pine City and Boardman. No more meetings are scheduled until the September meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker are leaving this week-end on a two weeks vacation which will be spent in Portland and California points.

Due to the scarcity of places to stay, no hotel reservations being available, Mrs. Hilma Anderson and turned to Heppner Wednesday evening after driving as far south as San Jose.

Frank Wilkinson met with a distressing accident Tuesday afternoon. He was supervising the building of a fence and had just reached out to test the post when the man with the mallet accidentally crushed Mr. Wilkinson's outstretched hand. The third finger on his left hand was so completely mangled that it was impossible to save the digit.

Mr. Wilkinson was resting fairly comfortably at his home this afternoon.

Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Lawrence drove to Portland today where Dr. Lawrence will attend a dental convention this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaughn motored to Portland today to spend a few days there with Mr. Vaughn's mother, Mrs. Carrie Vaughn.

Mrs. Madge Bryant is back at work at Case Furniture company after an enforced vacation, most of which was spent in taming a new set of dentures. They seem to be pretty well under control now.
