Pioneer Saddlery Sold Past Week

By E. G. Noble

Thomas Lloyd Buys Building And Equipment

Purchase of the past week of the Noble Harness and Saddle shop by Thomas Lloyd is one of the latest business changes to take place on Main street. Mr. Lloyd has been employed at the shop for several months under the tutelage of E. G. Noble, who retires after one of the longest periods of operation in local annals.

Mr. Lloyd will be assisted by his brother Jack Lloyd, who has come to Heppner from John Day where he has been employed as a teacher since the first of the year.

The purchase includes building and contents. The Noble Harness and Saddle Shop was started by E. G. Noble's father, the late George Noble, in 1880 and has been in the family continuously since that date. George Noble served his apprenticeship under his father and early in the present century took over the business. Louis Campbell, another Noble apprentice, was associated with him for a number of years, later selling his interest to Mr. Noble and accepting a position as saddle maker in the Hamley shop at Pendleton. Since that time the place has been operated by Mr. Noble who in recent times has worked by himself.

The fame of the Noble saddle was wide and orders came from many sections of the country. Stock men and cowboys, once they used a Noble saddle, preferred them and the shop was never without a list of orders.

Although he has disposed of the shop, Mr. Noble has assured his successor that he will occasionally visit a place at the bench to keep his hand in, for one who has tanned leather as long as he has tanned it could. At present he is recuperating from an illness which kept him out of the shop for several weeks. This, combined with advancing years, induced him to dispose of the business.

Wilson-Barratt Nuptials Set for 16th at All Saints

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Wilson announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Jean, to Mr. James Barratt Barratt Jr. The wedding date has been set and vows will be taken at 8 o'clock p. m. Sunday, June 16, at All Saints Episcopal church. The public is invited.

The wedding of this popular young couple will culminate a romance which began in grade school and continued on through high school. The groom-to-be entered the navy and saw service in the Pacific, receiving his discharge this spring. Miss Wilson took a year at the University of Oregon following graduation from Heppner high school and followed that with a nurse's training course in Portland. Both were prominent in high school activities and both graduated with honors.

Mrs. Robert Walker and Miss Edna Hughes left this morning for Portland to attend the Rose Festival, being more particularly interested in the floral parade. A. S. Akers planned to accompany them if he got caught up with his work.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Marshall and daughter Gwendolen left Heppner this morning for the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Jones.

Secret of Longevity Found in Leading Active Life, Declares Mrs. Swaggart, Now Past 87

If one would live to a ripe old age, he or she should remain active and take an interest in what is going on. That's the philosophy upon which Mrs. B. F. Swaggart bases her claim for passing the 87th milestone with a good prospect of seeing several more. "Work is a good thing to keep busy at," she declares, "and as long as she can get around."

The Swaggart ranch northeast of Lexington has long been noted for its horses. It is the birth place of the famous Arabian horses, a development of the late B. F. Swaggart worked on for many years. These horses are Mrs. Swaggart's joy—and her pet. To keep in their good graces she pulls grass and feeds them by hand. "They like it so much." Another of her activities at present is raising a pet crow. She loves animals and this has made it easy for her to spend most of 63 years on the place her husband homesteaded in 1883.

As a young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Swaggart moved to Umatilla county from the Willamette valley in 1873. Indians were kind of bothersome those days and finally went on the war path in 1878. The Swag-

Forest and Range

The forest service cruisers, Kenneth Keating and Bert Mason Jr., have hit the brush for the summer. They left town the first of the week with their gypsy camp consisting of trailer house and army cargo truck. At the present they are camped at Blue Spruce camp on Wall creek; as the summer progresses they will camp at Long Prairie, Fairview and Happy Jack springs. The boys will cruise the timber in Wall creek basin, Kahler creek basin and the Bolognas. When this fortnightly is taken it will complete the cruising of the entire Heppner working circle.

Sheep are again on the trails heading for the summer range. John Bromans is heading for the Silver creek and Matlock allotments with two bands. Steve Thompson has two bands in the mountains on the Malloy and Jones canyon allotment. Frank Wilkinson has a band of 700 sheep on the Red Hill allotment and another band on private range in the vicinity of Lovelock creek.

Crossing permits have been issued to Sid Seale, Barker Bros., and John Denzley who cross the Heppner district heading for the higher mountains in the Whitman and Malheur forests. A few years back the sheep trails across the Heppner district had heavy use, in fact the trails were probably the heaviest used of any national forest in the west. Fellow foresters would casually call the district the "Heppner National Driveway". Now days instead of 100,000 sheep crossing the district there are less than 10,000 head.

Grass in the mountains should be good this season with the favorable spring and the recent heavy rains. If the weather doesn't turn too hot and dry, this year should produce a good crop of lamb along with some fat beef.

Pat Campbell from Lowcock was a caller at the office this week. He is seeking summer range for a band of sheep.

Paul Taylor, forest engineer from Pendleton, was in town last week on business.

Foot and pole permits have been issued to Cleve Van Schöck, Ray Ferguson, O. G. Hagwood, Orin Wright and Chas. Monagle.

Several people have called regarding camp fire permits. These permits are not needed until July 1, when fire season officially opens. Although people wishing to burn trash and rubbish, who live within 1.5 mile of forest land have to secure a burning permit from ranger or state warden. Permits to enter forest areas are not required at this time, but at a later date high fire hazard areas will require permits. Before these areas are closed to entry, they will be announced in the paper and the areas will be posted.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Jones and granddaughter, Joyce Washburne, left Wednesday morning for Gridley, Calif. to visit the Charles Graybeal family. Mrs. Graybeal is the daughter of her husband's father of the Christian church in Gridley.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bryant and children spent the week-end in Heppner visiting relatives. They were called here by the death of Mrs. Bryant's grandfather, William C. Brown.

Here for Decoration day were Mrs. Michael Healy and Mr. and Mrs. William P. Healy and children of Portland and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Grosvenor of Boardman.

John and Edward Callahan of Portland were business visitors in Heppner the first of the week. They are grandsons of the late D. A. McAtee and came to see about property interests left by him.

Ted Thomson is visiting his mother, Mrs. Anna Q. Thomson, having just returned from Guam where he has seen service for quite a period. He expects to be discharged parts lived in the Athena district. Settlers were warned to be on the lookout for attacks so the young couple decided to forsake their cabin for what they at first thought would be a safer haven on top of a hay stack. Mr. Swaggart tethered his horse and showed up. He figured the horse would get excited by the approach of other horses and make a fuss which would wake them. The Indians didn't show up that night but some were spotted in the distance the next morning. The animal did get excited and Mrs. Swaggart said they didn't take time to let down the ladder and descend in a conventional manner. They just slid off that stack and spent the rest of the night in a grain field. The next morning they cautiously peered about to see if everything was intact. It later occurred to them that the haystack would have been one of the first things the Indians would have burned.

Mrs. Swaggart divides her time between the ranch home and her daughter's, Mrs. Wheeler, in Pendleton, but she "keeps her hand in" as the surest way to keep time from dragging.

The Gazette Times Goes Conventional

In an effort to conserve paper and to gain better advantage of mechanical equipment, The Gazette Times has forsaken the tabloid form and returned to a conventional (we think that's the proper word) size. The change has been contemplated for some time and was hastened somewhat by the growing scarcity of newsprint.

By eliminating margins we are able to gain 64 inches on the same size sheet. This is equal to four columns of the tabloid size or three columns plus two inches of the eight column page. It is hoped this will enable us to avoid printing extra pages to accommodate a little additional advertising, although there will be times when it will be necessary to increase the number of pages.

The overcrowded condition of the paper this week is due to publishing two large budget notices. Ordinarily there will be room for both news and advertising in a more balanced ratio.

Airport To Have Two New Hangars

Materials on Hand Awaiting Builders

Work was scheduled to start Wednesday on erection of two new hangars at the Lexington airport, according to Jack Forsythe, manager. One is a Quonset hut, 40 by 60 feet and the other a knock-down type, 29 by 60 feet.

Materials for both buildings are on the ground and it is expected that they will be put together in short order once the work starts.

The airport commission has allowed the most 20 feet of the frame building as an office space for the Forsythe Flying Service office, reserving the remaining 20 by 40 feet for plane storage. The Quonset hut will be used exclusively as a hangar.

Since the fire which destroyed the original hangar, Manager Forsythe has conducted his business in a craggy box-sized shack and his planes have been tethered in the open. There will be room in the new office to conduct classes of instruction as well as housing office equipment.

A self-winding hose reel has been installed on the gasoline pump, making it possible to service planes nearly 100 feet distant.

James Farley, local distributor of Shell Products, completed a business deal last week in which he purchased the service station on the corner of Chase and May streets known as Chuck's Sales and Service, from Charles Hodge.

Facey took over his new enterprise the first of the month and is assisted at the station by D. P. Pheasant. He has been operating the Shell plant since his return from the service the first of the year and will continue in this work along with his new station.

ANNUAL TEA AND CARDS

All Saints auxiliary are announcing their annual birthday tea and card party to be held at the parish house at 2 p. m. Thursday, June 13. The public is invited to attend. Finishes and bridge will be in play and it will be served at the conclusion of the afternoon.

Business visitors in Heppner Monday were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Blaise of Spray, who dropped around to the G-T office to pour little oil on the machinery.

Heppner to Play Fossil Here This Sunday Afternoon

Locals Lost There Last Sunday by Heavy Margin

All good baseball fans are urged to rally 'round Sunday afternoon when the Heppner team meets the league champs at the Rodeo park grounds. From all accounts the local nine will need the comforting assurance that the home folks are back of them after the four to one shelling they took at Fossil last Sunday. (The four to one means that each time Heppner made a score, Fossil made five).

Without offering alibis, it just wasn't Heppner's day to play ball. On the other hand, it was Fossil's day and the timbermen played heads-up all the way. Consequently they ran 20 men across the home plate while Heppner managed to shove five over.

Miller, season opener in the box for Heppner, will return to the box Sunday and it is expected that stronger opposition will develop from the local squad. New recruits are turning out for practice this week and some of these boys may be what's needed to pep up the game.

Condon plays at lone and Arlington at Wasco.

Regaining Camp Trade Advocated At C. C. Luncheon

Heppner should put forth an effort to recapture some of the Camp 5 trade which has drifted away from here the past year or so, in town enjoyed a prosperous business the opinion of B. C. Pinckney. The with the woodmen and their families for two or three years, especially when gas rationing for the camp was handled through the Heppner OPA office.

Pinckney made the suggestion to the Heppner chamber of commerce at Monday's meeting, stating that if some form of entertainment could be provided he was quite certain that many of the camp folk would return here to trade.

President F. W. Turner presented a proposal for a riding club here, stating that such an organization is under discussion. He also said that the Rodeo association would seek a lease on the Rodeo grounds and that a plan would be worked out for making headquarters for the riding club at the grounds, the two organizations providing a caretaker.

Davidson Acquires Richfield Station

Reopening of the Richfield service station, closed last week when Fiddis Ureign gave up his lease and moved to his new location on Chase street, is made by George Davidson who is again selling gas and oil at the familiar corner.

Davidson, youngest son of Mrs. Mabel Davidson, states that complete service will be available just as fast as he can get things in shape, which will be in a few days. He plans to include car washing and polishing in his line of service as well as light mechanical service.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bennett attended the funeral of the late William C. Brown in Condon Sunday.

"Billy" Straight Passes Suddenly Friday Morning

Resident Since '78 Expires in Lobby Of Hotel Heppner

Entering the lobby of the Hotel Heppner Friday morning, apparently to await opening of the Cozen barber shop, William E. Straight, one of the oldest residents of the county, died as he started to sit down in a chair. While he had grown quite feeble in recent months, it was not known that he had a serious heart condition and family and friends were quite shocked at his sudden passing.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock p. m. Sunday from the Phelps Funeral Home chapel, with Archdeacon Neville Blunt in charge. Mrs. Ture Peterson sang. Interment was made in the Heppner Masonic cemetery. Pallbearers were John Brozman, Walter Luckman, James Cowins, Burt Coxen and Harold Becket.

In point of residence, Mr. Straight was one of the oldest in the county. He came here as a lad for a horse ranch in the sand country by the name of Bab. When he was 18 years of age his father joined him here and they lived for a time on the Joe Rector place east of Heppner.

On June 27, 1887, he was married to Irena Isabel Devin. The young couple worked about a year for the late Millard French's father, then leased the Mitchell place on Hinton creek which they ran for several years, going from there to Little Butter creek. Mr. Straight engaged in the stock business with considerable success, retiring about 20 years ago to take up residence in Heppner.

Surviving are one daughter, Ola Jones, two sons, Waldon of Portland and Shirley of Post Falls, Ida, four granddaughters, and five great grandchildren. All were present for the funeral except one granddaughter, Mrs. Curtis Thomson.

Charles Notson to Speak Here June 14

Members of the Methodist church congregation are looking forward to a visit from one of their former members in the person of the Rev. Charles Notson, who is scheduled to speak in Heppner in the afternoon and evening Friday, June 14. He will be accompanied by his family and they will spend just one day here.

Charles, a native of Heppner, spent several years on the Tibetan border and upper Chinese territory to which he is returning. It has been five years since he last visited his old home and four years of that time was spent in war service as chaplain in the European theater.

The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Due For Discharge

Miss Leta Humphries spent several days the past week in Portland and Waldport with Miss Rose Liebbrand who is on a 70-day terminal leave from the Women's Auxiliary Corps. Miss Liebbrand will receive her discharge July 8 and will attend the University of Missouri his fall. She is in Seattle at present and will visit in Heppner before returning east.

Thinks Automobile Here to Stay . . . .

Robert Turner has written his mother, Mrs. Frank W. Turner, from Detroit telling briefly of the 50th anniversary of the automobile industry which it was his privilege to attend. Dated May 30, he writes as follows:

Dearest Mother: Detroit is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the automobile business. Looks like the auto is here to stay. All the streets are decorated and thousands are here for the celebration. I'm invited to meet with the Seiberling rubber company tomorrow as the president's (Mr. Seiberling) guest at an afternoon gathering preceding the Founders banquet. All of us will be there, including Henry Ford and Knudsen of G. M. C. Many old cars around the streets—right in the lobby of the hotel is a 1907 international, two-cylinder engine, buggy tires and body.

I really remember Dad's first Ford on the ranch and Cox's Maxwell that brought us to town the day of the cyclone. Some fun, eh?

American Legion Elects Officers

Heppner Post, American Legion, held election of officers Monday evening when the following were chosen: Commander, Dean Gilman; first vice commander, Frank Engkrat; second vice commander, Dr. R. C. Lawrence; adjutant, Willard Blake; finance officer, Dr. C. C. Dunham; chaplain, Fletcher Forster; historian, Clarence Hestelund; service officers, C. J. D. Bauman and William Smethurst Jr., sergeant-at-arms, Hubert Hudson.

Installation of the new officers will be held the evening of June 17.

Delegates to the state convention include Dr. C. C. Dunham, Dean Gilman and Loyal Parker. Alternates are Willard Blake and Dr. R. C. Lawrence.

Services Held at Condon Sunday for William C. Brown

Services were held at 2 o'clock p. m. Sunday at the Congregational church in Condon for William C. Brown, pioneer stockman and rancher of Gilliam and Morrow counties, who passed away Thursday, May 30. Interment was made in the Mt. Moriah cemetery at Condon. A large concourse of relatives and friends attended the services, several going from Heppner to pay their last respects to one who had spent nearly three quarters of a century in this section of the state.

Mr. Brown was born in Missouri, March 13, 1850 and came with his parents to Oregon in 1851. They settled near Eugene where William grew to manhood. He was married August 21, 1871 to Mary Anna Scott. They moved to eastern Oregon in 1874 and Mr. Brown followed ranching in Gilliam and Morrow counties until advancing years forced his retirement.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Dora Reed, Spray, Mrs. Matilda King, Spanaway, Wash., Mrs. R. A. Thompson, Heppner, and Mrs. Lennie Loudon, Condon; a son, Scott Brown of Condon, 11 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren, and one great great grandchild. His sister, Mrs. Ellen Bennett, passed away in Heppner April 26 of this year. He was the last member of the family of Silas and Jane Ann Brown.

New Agent Takes Over County Office

Morrow county's new agricultural agent, Nelson Anderson, arrived the first of the week from North Dakota and has assumed the duties of his office. He has been busy getting his family located in their temporary home in Clark's canyon and finding a little time to acquaint himself with the set-up here.

Clifford Smith, assistant county agent leader, is here today assisting Anderson with some of the details and familiarizing him with the Oregon system.

With the housing situation what it is, Mr. Anderson feels quite fortunate in finding a place to live, even if it is several miles from his office. He stated that if we think it is bad here we should try North Dakota.

In the county where he was serving as agent when offered the Morrow county post he couldn't find material to make bed slats. Neither could he find two six-foot pieces needed as standards for a sign he wanted to put up on one of the experimenting plots. There is a limited amount of building going on there, and that is mainly for veterans. It is understandable why he wanted to be assured housing before he would consent to come.

Soil Conservation Office to Provide Technical Advice

The Soil Conservation service reopened offices in the bank building Monday with Tom Wilson in charge. The office has been opened to provide technical assistance in soil conservation practices for the Heppner Soil Conservation district, which covers about 700,000 acres in Morrow and Umatilla counties.

Mr. Wilson, recently discharged from the army, was with the Soil Conservation service here for three years before entering the army in 1943. Assisting him will be Richard Salzman, a soils surveyor, and an engineer who will be secured for this area. Both Salzman and the engineer will also give assistance on the Gilliam county and west Umatilla soil conservation districts.

Frank Turner presented a request from the rodeo association for a lease on the Rodeo park. He was advised that the city was agreeable to a lease and would give the matter due consideration.

The mayor reported that easements had been obtained on rights-of-way for the new well, that a road had been graded to the site and that the city is now waiting for A. M. Edwards to complete a well at Echo before starting on the Heppner well.

Exam Scheduled for Postmastership Here

Examination for the position of postmaster for the Heppner post office has been scheduled for an early date, according to word received at the local office the first of the week. Joe Aiken has been serving as acting postmaster since the death of Charles B. Cox last fall.

The examination will be open to anyone regardless of political faith and those desiring to make a try for the job are advised to secure application blanks at once. These papers must reach Washington D. C. on or before June 26 to be acceptable.

The necessary forms must be obtained from Mrs. Muriel Rice, local civil service secretary, at the Heppner postoffice.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Davis were guests at the homes of their sons, Ralph and W. E. Davis over the Memorial week-end coming from their home in Elm, Utah.

Mr. and Mrs. Layton Isom from the service in September, Portland were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine

Mayor Announces Appointments at Monday Meeting

Recorder Huston Placed on Full Time Salary

Important changes were made in the city government at Monday evening's meeting of the council. Mayor J. O. Turner submitted a proposal that E. K. Huston be employed by the city on a full time basis at a salary of $400 per month. His proposal was accepted and Mr. Huston will assume his new duties the first of July.

Mrs. Blaine Sigmore has been receiving part time in the water utility and it was stated that she no longer wishes to carry on there. Mrs. Huston, who is city recorder, is closing her grocery store and will be available July 4. It was deemed a good move to combine the water clerk and recorder jobs and pay him a sufficient salary to make a full time job.

Mayor Turner announced that U. O. Rasmus, water commissioner, will hereafter also act in the capacity of street commissioner. Rasmus has been doing much of the work of a street commissioner for a number of years and the mayor felt he should at least be given the title.

Soil Conservation Office to Provide Technical Advice

The regular meeting of the Heppner Soil Conservation district board of supervisors will be held next Monday, June 10, at 8 p. m. in the bank building. Supervisors are Henry Peterson, chairman; Orville Cutsforth, vice chairman; O. E. Wright, treasurer; John Wightman and W. E. Hughes.

Farmers interested in securing soils surveys and maps to assist in their soil conservation problems are invited to attend this meeting or contact any of the supervisors. Wilson pointed out "It is hoped to have engineering assistance soon," he added.

Nels Anderson, new Morrow county agricultural agent, will attend the meeting.

Robert Kelly has returned home from the navy and is engaged this week in helping move his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kelley, to their new home in Grant county.

Mrs. Lucy E. Rodgers is spending the week in Salem where she is attending conferences of school secretaries and the annual convention of the county superintendents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Rosewall have been enjoying a visit with Mr. Rosewall's brother, Abe Rosewall, treasurer operator from Venita, Okla. With his family, the Oklahoma man has been visiting his mother at Walla Walla. It has been 23 years since he visited the home folks.

First Postwar Class Graduated at OSC June 9

OREGON STATE COLLEGE—The dignified and colorful ceremonies of graduation, enacted here for the seventy-seventh time June 9, complete the academic work for 420 graduates whose degrees are conferred by President A. L. Strand, upper left. The only honorary degree granted this year is to E. C. Sammons, Portland (center), civic leader, war bond chairman, banker and for 16 years member of the state board of higher education. Baccalaureate speaker at 11 o'clock, preceding graduation exercises at 8, is Rabbi Henry Berkowitz, Portland, recently returned from chaplain service.

Weddings Holding Spotlight in Heppner as Month of June Rolls Merrily Along . . . .

Weddings are taking the spotlight these days and Heppner is enjoying its share. The next one on the calendar is scheduled for Sunday morning when Miss Helen Healy and Mr. Harry Thomas O'Donnell Jr. will plight their troth at 10 o'clock in St. Patrick's church.

On Wednesday, May 29, at the Catholic church Miss Kathryn Howell, daughter of Thomas Howell and Mrs. Melissa Howell, became the bride of James McLaughlin. It was solemnized before the altar with Rev. Francis McCormack officiating. The bride, gowned in traditional white with full veil, was given in marriage by her father. Her attendants were Mrs. Edward Rice, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, Misses Colleen Miller and Lois Vance as bridesmaids and her own sister, Betty Howell as flower girl.

Paul Doherty, uncle of the groom served as best man and ushers were his brothers, Dan and Hugh McLaughlin. Mrs. R. C. Lawrence furnished the wedding music.

A reception was held in the basement of the church following the ceremony. Mrs. Harvey Miller presided at the nicely appointed table which was centered with a beautiful wedding cake bearing a miniature bride and groom under a wedding bell. Mrs. Sam Turner and Mrs. R. C. Lawrence assisted about the room.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school and was employed in the superintendent's office the past year.

The groom, son of Cornelius McLaughlin, served with the Marines in the South Pacific and has just recently been discharged from the service. For the present the young couple will reside in Heppner but they expect to go to California this fall to make their home.

Monday evening the Church of Christ was the scene of the wedding of Miss Betty Jepson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jepson and Mr. Elmer Lee Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newton of Coos Bay. Rev. O. Wendell Herbinson read the double ring ceremony.

The church was attractively decorated for the occasion with white pennies and candles. The candles were lighted by Juanita and Margaret Hale. Mrs. Robert Walker sang "Through the Years" and "Living for Jesus" and was accompanied by Beverly Elliott of Milton who also played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white floor length gown and veil and carried a bouquet of white carnations and white Bible.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Wendell Herbinson, sister of the groom, and little Mary Esther Herbinson was flower girl. Willard Herbinson was the groomsmen. Bob and John Jepson were ushers.

A reception following the ceremony and was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Lee Howell was in charge of the refreshments.

Out of town relatives included the groom's father and mother of Coos Bay and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Newton and his sister Ruth of Coos Bay and another sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Byer Putnam of Prospect.

The young couple will go to Milton to work until school time in the fall when they plan to finish their high school courses at Prospect in Jackson county.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Elliott and daughters were here from their home at Milton.

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Bonayne and Richard Ferguson has been received by relatives and friends in Heppner. The marriage was solemnized at the Old St. Mary's church in San Francisco and the couple left for St. Paul, Minn. home of the bride, where they will visit for a few weeks and then will come to Heppner to spend the summer.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Ferguson of Heppner and prior to entering the service was a student at Oregon State college. He is a graduate of the Heppner high school and well and favorably known here. His marriage is the culmination of a romance started while located in the mid-western area.
