Be a Good Neighbor

Lexington has shown enterprise and foresight in establishing an airport to serve not only that community but the entire county. The little community has undertaken a sizeable job and is carrying on against considerable odds. Loss of a hangar set the project back temporarily but did not daunt the spirit of those who saw the need of a port and started out to have one.

It is not the purpose of the airport commission to seek funds through donation—at least not constantly. A considerable sum was raised for the initial start through the celebration at Lexington last July 4. That was followed with a canvass of the neighboring towns which resulted in raising a tidy sum. But an airport is no different from any other enterprise. It requires funds, and quite regularly too.

Another celebration is being held this year and net proceeds will be used in further development of the airport. Lexington has invited the people of the county to celebrate there on July 3 and 4. Business people and others have been invited to participate in the parade. This is one part of the program to which Heppner can make a direct contribution. The Chamber of Commerce is endeavoring to prepare a float and likewise is urging others to make some type of contribution to the parade. If there is not time to prepare something elaborate it surely would be worth the effort to place something on the family car to designate one's place of business and enter it. This goes for other towns of the county as well as Heppner.
