You WILL Get A New Car . . .

Qs Isn't there something I can do to get a new car now? I am willing to pay a premium if necessary.

A: We do not accept bonuses over our regular established retail prices. The new cars we get will be delivered to the people who have placed orders with us on a first-come-first-served basis. The only exceptions for earlier delivery that will be made are to veterans and cases of public necessity, as mentioned above.

Qs Why hasn't the Ford Motor Company built more cars since the war?

A: Ford was the first automobile manufacturer to get into production with a 1946 model car . . . and was months ahead of the rest of the industry. But circumstances that neither Ford Motor Company, its employees nor its Dealers could control have restricted the production of new cars to only a fraction of the number the company had planned to build.

Qs Have strikes held down Ford production?

A: There hasn't been a single strike at the Ford Motor Company since the close of the war. But strikes in other plants and industries have held Ford production down.

In addition to the steel and coal strikes, with which you are familiar, there have been numerous strikes in plants the Ford Motor Company depends on for other materials and parts. These work stoppages created a shortage of materials and parts that have held the production of new cars down . . . and on several occasions completely closed all Ford plants for weeks at a time.

We want to thank you for your patience and understanding in this difficult situation and to assure you that we are doing everything we can to give you early delivery.

In the meantime, may we suggest that bring your present car to us for service. We will give it expert care, at reasonable rates, to keep it serving you well until your new Ford, Lincoln or Mercury can be delivered.

. . . maybe sooner than you think

His Farm Fields Are Factories

U. S. FARMERS have made our fields into factories.

We live better than people in other countries because our farmers get more out of the soil.

The steel industry takes pride in the way it has helped bring about this improvement in farm practice. Tools of steel—from the plowshare to the giant combine—have multiplied in number and increased vastly in quality.

Fifty years ago the typical farm in America used about 3 tons of steel. Today the figure is nearer 17½ tons.

That is a measure of the modernization of agriculture and an indication of the interdependence of steel and farming.

We no longer have separate "farm production problems" or "industrial production problems." We have but one set of problems for everybody.

If strikes, for instance, restrict the supply of farm implements and supplies through work stoppages, or make their cost prohibitive, America is out of gear.

Anything which tends in this direction is bad for the farmer—and finally for everybody. Farmers know it. Everybody else should know it.

Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. The shortage is serious. Farmers can get extra dollars and help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.
