County's Schools Start With Only 4 Teacher Vacancies

Heppner Hi Shows Definite Increase; Grade School Less

Schools in Morrow county are full swing with only four vacancies left in the county, Mrs. Lucy Rodgers county superintendent, said today.

A total of 127 students are enrolled in the Heppner high school this year, compared with 105 last year and 209 pupils are enrolled in the Heppner grades, compared with 273 last year. Enrollment in the high school broken down by grades shows 42 freshmen, 29 sophomores, 30 juniors and 26 seniors, George Corwin, superintendent, reported.

The first football practice of the season was held Wednesday with 35 men turning out.

County teachers not listed last week who will teach this year are Frances Ely, high school teacher and Mrs. Margaret Cason, primary teacher, Ione.

CAFE CLOSING FRIDAY

Harvey White announces that the Heppner Cafe will not open its doors Friday morning. That is the day the cafe remains closed to permit the proprietor and all the help to take in the Pendleton Round-Up.

Guests of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. McDermid recently were Mrs. Lynn Smith of Los Angeles and their niece, Miss Marjorie Sims of Corvallis. On Monday Dr. and Mrs. McDermid drove Robert M. McDermid and Miss Sims to Pendleton where she will visit her sisters, Mrs. David Baum and Miss Florence Sims. Robert McDermid took the plane for San Francisco where he will visit his brothers before returning to his home in Virginia.

VARIOUS INJURIES RECEIVED IN ACCIDENTS OF WEEK

Danny Brosnan, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Brosnan of Lena, had six stitches taken on the back of his head after cutting it severely when he fell from a car on the highway Wednesday.

Jack Griffin Jr. nearly severed his nose when he ran into a tree with his jeep last week to avoid hitting a parked truck on a mountain road. Griffin was thrown against the windshield at the impact. Several stitches were required to sew up the cut.

Max Buschke had his thumb cut off by a saw while working at the Heppner Lumber company mill Monday morning.

Other members present included Miss Lulu Hager, Mrs. Rachel Dick, Mrs. Lucy Rodgers, Mrs. Sara McNamee, Mrs. James Thomson Jr., Miss Leta Humphreys and Mrs. J. O. Turner.

Forest and Range

The Kinzua Pine Mills company is experimenting with a new type of logging on creek crossings. The new logging road down Wilson creek is so located that it makes two crossings of the creek. To avoid the expense of two bridges the company has constructed two fords. The fords consist of a two-foot fill over the top of a small culvert. The fill is paved with a new road oil known as bitumul. The bitumul is mixed in a cement mixer with gravel and water and placed on the fill at a depth of five inches. Both the front and back slopes of the fill are paved as well as the top. It is planned that the culvert will handle the summer flow of the creek and during the spring flow the water will go over the top of the fill. If the experiment is successful it will revolutionize present forest road standards on creek crossings. On all summer roads the fords will replace the more expensive bridges.

Glenn Mitchell, who is head of the Wildlife division of the Forest Service in Oregon and Washington, and Charles Waldron, Umatilla forest game management technician, spent two days on the Heppner district inspecting winter game ranges. Both men were greatly concerned about the depleted condition of the winter range areas in the north fork of the John Day region. A severe winter would certainly result in large starvation loss of deer.

The recent rains have started the grass growing in the mountains and it should have a fairly good growth by the opening date of deer season.

About one inch of rain fell in the last rainy season, according to records from the different weather stations over the district.

A fire has been reported from Wheeler Point this week and Louis Gilliam took action on it. It was in the vicinity of Kahler Basin and about three acres in size.

Mr. Berry the communications man for Umatilla, Whitman and Wallawa forests, is on the district looking over the communications system.

During the month of August, Carl McDaniell took 70 coyotes from Morrow county. This is more than an average catch, according to records for seasons past.

J. V. Cowdrey Buried Here Tuesday P. M.

Services for Joseph Virgil Cowdrey, 63, were held from the Phillips Funeral Home chapel at 2 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, with Joe Jewett, pastor of the Heppner Church of Christ, officiating. Interment was in the Heppner Masonic cemetery. Mr. Cowdrey passed away Friday, Sept. 6, at the home of his son Lyle in Vancouver, Wash.

Mr. Cowdrey was born in Linn county, Ore. in 1883 and came to Morrow county in 1900. He married Bessie Owen of Hardman in 1912. He was a resident of Heppner about 25 years and had spent the past year at Vancouver with his son. He worked in a shipyard during the war.

Surviving are two sons, Lyle and Donald, both of Vancouver, and a brother, Jacob Cowdrey, of Portland.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their expressions of sympathy in our bereavement and for the floral tributes to the memory of our father and brother.

Wheat Insurance Deadline Due By First of October

Farmers Urged to Contact County FCI Representative

With two weeks remaining before the deadline date for insuring winter wheat under the Federal crop insurance program for 1947, increasing interest is being shown by Morrow county farmers in this phase of farm security, said Henry Baker, chairman of the county AAA committee, this week.

"In triple A's program of round-off farm security, there are three phases: Soil-conserving payments are made to help hold the soil and to increase fertility, thereby aiding production of crops; subsidies and loans are made to hold up the price structure of these crops, and then comes the insurance program to keep the farmer on the farm in years of crop failure, over the causes of which he has no control," Baker said.

A new contract offered in the present sales campaign covers the insured's acreage seeded to wheat for grain in the three years 1947-1948-1949. Higher yields and lower premium rates prevail for 1947 than those in effect under the old contract, said Baker, adding that signing the new contract automatically cancels the former contract should there be one in effect. He said it is to the advantage of all those insured under the old contract to sign a new contract.

Full information as to individual farm yields and protective features of Federal crop insurance may be had by calling at the county AAA office or contacting Mrs. Juanita Rietmann, county sales manager.
