

Homemakers Have Big Day At Ione In Annual Meeting

Ninety-one women attended the annual Homemakers day on Tuesday, April 15, at the Willow grange hall in Ione.

The day started promptly at 10 a.m. with registration in charge of Mrs. Vernon Munkers and Mrs. Bill Smethurst, Lexington.

Some special exhibits were on display which created a great deal of enthusiasm by the homemakers. Many interesting new materials were included in this exhibit. The Lanaset treated wool fabric which gives wool a permanent shrink resistant finish after repeated washings was displayed.

A Fibreglas printed necktie which does not soil, wrinkle, or stretch was one of the exhibits.

A new wool material used for lining coats and jackets with a satin outer finish and a fluffy inner finish to give additional warmth and wearability created many comments.

A display of drapery, upholstery and slipcover material was on exhibit along with contrasting pictures, rug material and wall paper. A framed picture of a compact drapery material motif gave many usable ideas on how to obtain color harmony in the home.

To save motions, steps and energy was illustrated by a kitchen exhibit of various pictures. Many women obtained some one idea from this that would be usable in their kitchen. Mrs. Gene Ferguson was in charge of this exhibit.

An exhibit of unusual interest was the display of all the chairs upholstered at the extension upholstery workshop during the last week in March. Mrs. Clive Huston and Mrs. Elmer Palmer of Heppner acted as chairmen of this exhibit. They made up a table of exhibits showing the materials and supplies necessary to upholster a chair. Many of these supplies can now be obtained at the home demonstration agent's office. Most of the women were amazed at the perfection of the workmanship on the chairs.

The 4-H exhibit will be covered in the 4-H news column.

Mrs. Ralph Thompson of Heppner, chairman of the county home extension committee, opened the program with an address of welcome.

A style revue was given by the women who took part in the cotton dress workshop last November. Some of the garments which were remodeled at the remodeling clinic last fall including suits, dresses and one fur coat, were modeled. Last fall during the remodeling clinic the home demonstration agent assisted 103 different women with their remodeling and renovating problems. Many others have been assisted with remodeling since they know the service is available.

Miss Jean Williams, extension specialist in recreation from Corvallis, provided a relaxing, hilarious entertainment for the women in their antics of cow punches, and dainty ladies to accompany of the Easter Bonnet Parade, played by Mrs. Gladys Drake of Ione at the piano. Miss Williams is a former eastern Oregon girl. Her home was in La Grande where she taught in the high school after graduation from the University of Oregon.

Miss Frances Clinton, assistant state home demonstration leader of Corvallis and former home demonstration agent for Umatilla county, gave an interesting talk and showed colored slides of her trip to the South Seas and Mexico.

Mrs. Irma Little, extension specialist in family relationships, gave a talk on "Where Are We Today?" This talk was one of the highlights of the day.

Mrs. Ben Forsythe presided over the noon luncheon. Short talks were given by Mrs. Lucy Rodgers, Miss Margaret Gillis, Mrs. Norman Nelson, Lexington, chairman of Morrow county 4-H council; N. C. Anderson, county agent, and Katherine Monahan, home demonstration agent. The members of the Morrow county home extension committee and the home extension unit chairmen were presented to the group of homemakers.

Mrs. Markham Baker, Ione, secretary of the home extension committee, presided over the afternoon program.

The Heppner high school sent three girls, Harriet Ball, Yvonne Hastings and Joan Hisler, to care for the pre-school children. Many homemakers contributed to the success of the program. The spring atmosphere was felt the minute you entered the hall by the appearance of the lovely flower arrangements done by Mrs. Steve Thompson and Mrs. Tom Wilson, Heppner.

The members of the Ione high school glee club were featured in several musical numbers.

Mrs. Ritchie Not In Direct Path of Oklahoma Twister

Family and friends were somewhat concerned about the welfare of Mrs. Louise Ritchie when word was flashed over the wires and radio about the destruction of Woodward, Okla., by a tornado. Their concern was not without foundation because the family had been advised that Mrs. Ritchie had planned to be in Woodward on that date and only a change in plans caused her to be just out of the path of the twister.

Mrs. Ritchie was at Curtis, 12 miles distant from Woodward and experienced enough storm there to do her for the remainder of her visit. After the storm, her nephew, with whom she was visiting asked her if Oregon has storms like that and when she assured him that nothing of that kind happens in her home state he replied that he was moving to Oregon as soon as he could make arrangements.

Occupants Escape Serious Injury As Car Leaves Road

Two Heppner people had a miraculous escape from possible death, and at least serious injury, Saturday evening while enroute to the dance at Ione.

Dick McAllister and Mrs. John Hanan were riding in the Heppner Cleaners & Dyers panel pickup which was completely wrecked when it left the road and bounded into a field at the W. E. McMillan farm about three miles below Lexington.

Ahead of the pickup were the cars of Merle and Reese Burkheim. As the cars passed the McMillan house McAllister endeavored to pass Reese Burkheim and lost control of the car. The car left the road and turned over several times, clearing the McMillan fence in one of its bounds, and finally came to a stop down in the field.

McAllister was the worst injured of the passengers and after an examination by a physician in Heppner was taken to the hospital in Pendleton. He was badly shaken up and it was found that he suffered a fractured shoulder blade. Mrs. Hanan was cut and bruised about the face, but aside from being sore from the shaking up, suffered no serious injury. She was in attendance at the cleaning shop counter Monday. McAllister was scheduled to return to Heppner today.

Several new names were entered on the membership roll.

Ranch Rodeo Draws Large Attendance

More than 800 people attended the rodeo held at the Art Hughes ranch on little Butter creek Sunday. Many people coming from the John Day valley and other neighboring counties, as well as numbers from Heppner and other points in this county.

A rather lengthy program of roping, milking and riding events was run through, with Cot Dodson, ex-northwest champion, copping the bucking event.

The rodeo was staged on the east side of the creek where a triangle strip was laid off for handling the stock with corals, and bleachers for the spectators.

Dream of Years Comes to Reality As First Earth Turned At McNary Dam

A dream that has dwelt in the minds and hearts of countless numbers of people living in the Columbia river basin from Pasco to The Dalles and even reaching eastward across the Blue mountains into Idaho, came into reality Tuesday, April 15, 1947, when Cornelia Morton McNary, widow of Senator Charles McNary, using an all-aluminum shovel made especially for the particular occasion, lifted the first shovelful of earth and emptied it into a bucket of the same material for preservation in a safety vault. That was the first definite action towards construction of the great McNary dam which will span the Columbia river above the town of Umatilla and form an inland lake, as it were, backing the water up as far as Pasco in the Columbia and above that town on the Snake.

The celebration staged at Umatilla was a history-making event that attracted upwards of 10,000 visitors. The news photographers, newsreel cameramen and broadcasting services were there. Many prominent officials and business men, numbers of old river men, and at least one motion picture star, "Miss Dam-site," otherwise Janis Paige, were among the visitors cheered by Governor Earl Snell and Mrs. Snell.

A parade extending a distance of two miles and requiring almost an hour to pass the reviewing stand was a blending of the old west with the modern west.

Mrs. M. D. Clark Laid To Rest Here Monday Afternoon

Services were held at 2 o'clock p.m. Monday, April 14, for Mrs. M. D. Clark who passed away Friday in Eugene, where she and Mr. Clark had resided since last fall. The services were held in the Masonic hall, the Eastern Star service being used and the Episcopal prayer service read by Rev. Neville Blunt. Interment was in the family lot in the Heppner Masonic cemetery.

Minnie Barton was born in Greenfield, Adair county, Iowa, and at the age of three years came with her parents to Morrow county, the family settling in the Blackhorse district. She received her education in the Heppner schools, grew to womanhood here and in 1904, at Portland, was married to Malcolm D. Clark, pioneer business man of Heppner. Two children were born to this union, Mary (Mrs. Frank Riggs) and Marjorie (Mrs. Gordon Riddings), who, with the husband and two children, Clark Riggs and Ann Riddings, survive.

Mrs. Clark was a past matron of Ruth chapter No. 32, Order of the Eastern Star, a member of the White Shrine club of Portland, and of the All Saints Episcopal church in Heppner.

Jaycees Implored To Help Library

Former Mayor J. O. Turner visited the junior chamber of commerce Wednesday evening and presented the case of the Heppner library. He pointed to the fact that a comparatively small group of people have carried on the library work for a number of years and that both new personnel and more funds are needed to keep it working order. The Jaycees promised to give the matter their attention and see if they could not devise a means for assisting.

Various matters occupied the attention of the club last night and the usual hour stretched into more than three before it was felt adjournment was in order.

School to Send Band and Chorus To Music Festival

Heppner's school band and chorus will participate in the annual music festival at Eastern Oregon college in La Grande, April 26, it was announced this week. Arrangements are underway to secure transportation for the two groups.

The band will be playing in grade C competition this year, that rating being established on the basis of having within its membership several who have participated in previous contests. Grade C schools are those having a population of 250 students or less. Grade D includes bands whose members have not participated in a contest. Grade C bands are obliged to play music classed from grade II to grade IV.

According to Billy Cochell, Heppner director, there are five places in which bands are picked. No. 1 is superior rating; No. 2, excellent; No. 3, good performance; No. 4, fair performance; and No. 5, unsatisfactory. He is striving to put his band in the good performance rating.

Those wishing to transport students to La Grande should contact the transportation committee, headed by Howard Keithley and including Marvin Wightman and Mrs. Orville Smith.

Edmond Gonty New P-TA President

At the meeting of the Heppner Parent-Teacher association held the evening of April 9, Edmond Gonty was elected president for the ensuing year. Gonty served as vice president the past year and succeeds Mrs. Tress McClintock, retiring president.

MISS CASE SELECTS DATE FOR MARRIAGE TO ALEX THOMPSON

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Case this week announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Josephine to Alex Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph I. Thompson.

The wedding is scheduled for 2:45 p.m. Sunday, May 11, at the Methodist church. Friends of the two families are invited to be present. A reception will follow the wedding.

The above picture gives the reason for the open house party to which Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rosewall have invited the public to be their guests Saturday evening. It is the 36 x 90 foot annex built to the Rosewall Motor company garage, the first expansion made to the property since the original building was erected.

When the Rosewalls joined Emery Gentry here in 1939 to set up the Rosewall-Gentry Motor company, the original building had not been used as a garage for nearly two years. Mr.

Rosewall recalled that an orange peddler was occupying the gas pump island and the shop room was being used as a boxing arena. This came to a stop when the two energetic young businessmen took possession and from that time to this there has been unceasing activity about the building.

The Rosewalls bought Gentry's interest in 1941 and began planning to enlarge the building. It was sold by L. E. Dick Sr. to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dick Jr. and then acquired by the present owners. Not only did they acquire the building but they went on to buy the property to the east of the garage, making ample room for a used car lot.

Saturday night's hosts have made extensive preparations to entertain company. Sandwiches and soft drinks have been ordered in quantity and there will be dancing for those who like to trip the light fantastic. An additional feature will be a display of new model trucks and passenger cars.

It will be a big evening in Heppner and a most cordial greeting awaits the public.

Sales Tax Said Offset For Population Factor Of Basic School Law

Passage of a sales tax is about the only offset eastern Oregon can hope to realize against the uneven distribution of the basic school law fund. That's the opinion expressed by Representative Henry Peterson after weathering an 83-day session of the legislature.

The legislature proved every possibility for obtaining additional funds and the sales tax seemed the only fair and equitable method without slapping additional burdens on property.

Peterson said, "If we adopt a sales tax, the new people coming to the state will assume their fair share of the additional expense their coming is creating in school financing. I feel the legislature did the only thing it could and most certainly eastern Oregon should be solidly in favor of the tax," he said.

One disappointing feature of the recent session was failure of the house and senate to override the governor's veto of the bill to accept the Camp White hospital. Rep. Peterson is well informed about the condition of the state's institutions and feels that operation expenses could have been found had the state acquired the hospital.

The genial wheatraiser from Gooseberry was a Heppner visitor Monday trying to pick up the threads of life where he left off so many weeks ago before leaving for Salem and the record-breaking session of the legislature. He said he was glad that he didn't have to be home to make the wheat grow or he would have been most unhappy.

Mankins Buy Two Tennessee Walking Horses in Portland

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mankin have always been out front in the matter of saddle stock, especially personal riding horses, and now they probably will be 'way out front. The past week they purchased two Tennessee Walking horses, a stallion and a mare, which will be brought to the Willow creek ranch six miles northwest of Heppner some time next week.

The Tennessee Walker is so named because of the gait. Mankin said he believed this breed of horses is not classed as racing stock but when on the road can cover distance at a pretty good rate and with great comfort to the rider. The stallion is registered but the mare is not subject to registration, although she has the appearance of a purebred.

Kinzua, Condon, Fossil Winners In Sunday's Games

Heppner Rests as Other Teams Meet Regular Schedule

Kinzua, scheduled to meet Heppner here Sunday in the second game of the regular Wheat-Timber league time table, had little difficulty taming Arlington Sunday, romping off on the long end of a 19-7 score.

While Kinzua was trimming Arlington, Condon took Wasco into camp (score unknown) and Fossil shut out Ione, 13-0.

Heppner drew a bye last Sunday and will meet the Kinzua timber wolves here this coming Sunday. From all reports, the Kinzuans have perked up since their opening game and the local aggregation is preparing for a contest. It is understood Heppner has added a new pitcher to the staff and he will be given a workout Sunday.
