Now for the Fair and Rodeo

It's Rodeo time again, only this year we have something more to think about—the county fair. It has been a number of years since a fair was held in Heppner and it remains to be seen to what extent that part of the week-end entertainment will attract people to Heppner. Interest displayed to date indicates that the fair will play no small part in creating interest in attendance at both the exhibit of products and the wild west performance just over the coral fence.

As for the Rodeo, there is reason to believe that a fine show is in prospect. If preparations have any influence it should be the best show ever. The directors and others interested in the welfare of the Rodeo have been putting in some hard licks to get the grounds in shape and it can be said the arena, grandstand and all features connected with the staging of the show have never been in better condition.

As time goes on it is hoped the fair and rodeo will be under one management. Some duplications of effort can be eliminated without detracting from either and eventually there will be one good big show with backing of a larger number of people.

Preparations for the fair are going on just as fast as workmen can put them through. The exhibit hall is ready to receive the products of soil and hand, and the livestock quarters were rapidly nearing completion Wednesday evening. Inquiries about exhibit space have led fair officials to believe that the space provided will be no more than ample. This is a good trend and one that will eventually make the Morrow county fair an event of annual importance.

To visitors to the fair and rodeo Heppner extends the hand of welcome.

State Loses Good Citizen

In the passing of Marie R. Chessman, publisher of the Astorian Budget of Astoria, the state of Oregon has lost a valuable citizen. His talent for getting things done will be missed in his home community where he took the leadership in numerous civic enterprises; his accomplishment in making Tongue Point a major naval base, and otherwise strengthening the defenses at the mouth of the Columbia river, as well as service on the state fish commission, the state highway commission, and as state senator, all mark him as a man of real service to his community and to his state.

It is a notable fact that Mr. Chessman's career as a newspaperman was spent with but two papers—the East Oregonian at Pendleton and the Astorian Budget. He was an outstanding publisher, a past president of the state editorial association, now the Oregon Newspaper Publishers association, and at the time of his passing was a member of the board of directors of the association.

For a number of years the Heppner school boasted one of the best bands in the class B division. With the coming of the war and a general disruption of school activities, the band all but disappeared. That nucleus which was sustained throughout that trying period has been surrounded by a new group of aspiring young musicians and under the guidance of Billy Cohehl we have a school band once more that is going places. In fact, the band has already been places within the week and returned home with laurels seldom attained by a group with such short preparation.

Winning of the award in the Dress-Up parade at Pendleton Saturday night was no mean achievement for the Heppner band. Larger bands from larger schools were in the parade also, but none of them, in the opinion of the judges and a large segment of the spectators, quite measured up to the showing made by the Heppner band. It is also reported that the same opinion prevailed at the Umatilla county fair last Friday—that had there been awards made for bands the Heppner band would have captured first place.

These are pleasant words and should encourage our young musicians to strive for greater awards. Nothing will be gained by resting on laurels already won. That is just the starting point for greater things to come.

Power-Line Voltage

WITH THE NEW 110-VOLT D.C. WINCHARGER

And—you can use "standard" appliances! Those "standard," "city-type" appliances that operate on universal current—that is, on either 110 volt A.C. or 110 volt D.C. electricity, such as radios, vacuum cleaners, toasters, food mixers, coffee makers, for example—can be operated on the new 110 volt Winco Power Wincharger.

Also, most motor-driven appliances, such as washing machines, water pumps, milkers, separators, drills, grinders, etc., can be bought for 110 volt D.C. operation. No longer do you have to buy special, "farm-type," appliances, except for hermetically-sealed refrigerators and automatic, thermostatically-controlled heating appliances. And even in the case of these appliances, refrigerators with "open-type" compressors and non-thermostatically-controlled irons are available. Simple provision can be readily made for operation of radio-phonograph combinations.

Furthermore, you can use standard 110 volt house-wiring with the new 110 volt Winco Power Wincharger. Same wire, at the same cost, as in town.

The 110 volt Winco Power Wincharger provides sufficient electricity for a well electrified farming operation—much more electricity than the average R.E.A. customer uses (based on latest R.E.A. annual statistical report).

And—economical—no monthly "electric bills"—power from the free wind.

(1) "Standard" appliances. (2) Standard wiring. (3) Plenty of electricity. (4) Economical. (5) Available now!
