By Echo Palmateer
Those who attended the meeting of the IMIA at the Legion hall Wednesday evening, Sept. 10, were very fortunate in hearing Cleo Jenkins of Corvallis, Mr. Jenkins is an experienced architect who has planned the construction of several swimming pools in various parts of the state and has several pools under construction at the present time. The information he was able to give regarding costs and methods of construction was interesting and valuable. He illustrated his remarks with plans and drawings of various pools. No definite commitments were made but it was decided that it would be a good policy to go ahead with the building up of "stock piles" to insure having sufficient materials on hand when construction should begin.
