News From C. A. Office

Morrow county farmers are all invited to attend the weed control equipment exhibit and meeting that will be held at the fair grounds in Heppner on Tuesday, Sept. 23. The weed control meeting begins at 10:30 a.m. with the afternoon reserved for looking over and talking about the equipment that will be exhibited.

The exhibit to be held at Heppner is one of several scheduled for eastern Oregon. Mike Huber, extension agricultural engineer, Virgil Freed, assistant agronomist, and Rex Warren, extension specialist in farm crops, all from Oregon State college, will be on hand to discuss weed problems and methods of control. Both annual and perennial weed control will be discussed.

Weed control equipment to be displayed will include hand dusters, hand sprayers, power dusters, power sprayers and fumigator injectors from all of the leading manufacturers and distributors. The display will be interesting and educational for all. Plan to attend this meeting and exhibit on September 23.

The U.S.D.A. has just announced that the price of turkeys will be supported from September 1, 1947 through January 31, 1948. The live weight support prices to Oregon producers for young Grade A turkeys are as follows: Birds under 18 pounds, 35.5 cents per lb.; 18 to 22 pounds, 31.5 cents; and over 22 pounds, 25.5 cents.

If prices are not considerably above these support levels, the margin of profit in the turkey business will be eliminated this year due to the high feed costs.

Turkeys raised this year in Oregon number 1,639,000 compared with 1,863,000 for the 5 year average from 1949 to 1943.

Du Pont has developed a new Ceresan-like smut control chemical which may go far toward removing the objections to the use of New Imported Ceresan. The new material appears to give fully as good control as the older product, and at the same time is almost non-odoriferous and non-caustic. It will be on the market during the coming year.

In the meantime farmers are urged to continue treating all seed grain with New Improved Ceresan and copper carbonate. There has been an increase of smut in eastern Oregon the past year or two and seed treatment is the way to keep smut percentage down. The price of wheat is now too high to gamble with losing part of a crop to smut. Some of our new varieties of wheat including Elgin must be treated with Ceresan as copper carbonate will not protect it from the smut. It is susceptible to. Check on the smut susceptibility of the varieties you are seeding then treat with recommended treatment.

Herman Wallace, Lexington farmer, reports some excellent kills of field mice by the use of poisoned oats applied this summer. He estimates that approximately 7000 mice killed with over two thousand dead mice found in a quarter mile strip. Mr. Wallace made another purchase of poison oats recently from this office to clean up the rest of the mice infesting his fields.

Field mice, not much of a pest the past few years, have reappeared this season, especially in the lower wheat country along the baseline road. An inspection tour of this area was made by the county agent last May at which time much damage was found in many fields.

Nelson Bros. and Sam McMillan, Lexington, are farmers who have also used poison oats the past season for mouse control and report good results. The poisoned oats bait is available to this office at cost.

Summer is over, but there still are jobs to be done in the garden during September. Here are a few of them:

Pull, dry and store the winter onion crop. Give the onions careful handling or you will have a sunburned and bruised product that has poor keeping quality.

Harvest squash and pumpkins before freezing weather. Give them careful handling, too. A little frost or rough handling will start trouble which can spoil the entire crop.

Pick the dry beans and see that they are completely dried before the damp weather of the last fall months makes the job doubly hard.

Plant a cover crop in vacant garden ground to maintain the organic matter content of the soil and make for a better garden next year.

If your garden didn't do so well this year, now is a good time to locate a better piece of ground for next year. You can tell more about the soil now than during the winter or early in the spring. It is much easier to raise a good garden on good soil than a poor one on poor soil.
