The Uncertainties Of Life

Three prominent Oregon citizens, in the prime of life and with the normal expectancy of attaining the proverbial three-score and ten, set out to enjoy a few hours of relaxation from official and business duties in the great bird area of Lake county. This morning searchers were reported within a short distance of the plane in which Governor Earl Snell, Secretary of State Robert S. Farrell Jr. and Marshall Cornett, Klamath Falls business man and president of the Oregon state senate, had left Klamath Falls to fly to the Warner lakes area in Lake county where the duck shooting is good. The distance from Klamath Falls to Adel is not great as the crow flies and flying time is less than one hour. Yet in that short space of time tragedy struck and Oregon was bereft of its three top political figures.

As the first news came over the radio one could only hope that the pilot, experienced and careful Cliff Houge, must have found a safe landing place somewhere in that vast expanse of forest. The hours moved on and still no word. The ominous silence turned hope to fear which latest news dispatches confirmed. Shock and sorrow have been visited upon four happy homes. An entire state is in mourning following this latest demonstration of the uncertainty of life.

Rest To Beat TB!

A visitation this week end from the mobile x-ray unit sponsored by the Oregon Tuberculosis association makes a release on tuberculosis by the association of particular interest. The release is a folder titled, "Rest to Beat TB." Some thots from this treatise may prove of benefit to those of our readers who possibly may not have received a copy.

"A person who has tuberculosis needs rest. Rest is the one sure thing on which to build good health again. There are no short-cuts, no magic cures. Rest is the answer. Other things help, but there is nothing else in the world that can take the place of rest.

"Rest for the body. Rest for the mind. Rest for the sick lung. Three-of-a-kind, all winners against TB. The odds are all in favor of the patient who rests.

"In the early stages, tuberculosis may not make a person feel sick. It is a great surprise to many people when a chest x-ray shows up the beginnings of trouble inside their lungs. They think they are perfectly well. Do they have any pain? No. Have they lost any weight? No. Usually they have no fever and, more than likely, no cough. Perhaps all they notice is feeling a little extra tired.

"But in those early stages TB is most curable, if it is treated as soon as it is found—and treated long enough.

"The treatment is rest. Rest in bed. Rest in a sanatorium. Complete rest, plus good food, fresh air and anything else the doctor orders. When TB is found late (after a person feels sick and miserable and perhaps has a bad cough), it will take much more rest and cost a lot more money to get him well.

"Don't be too busy, too self-willed, too scared to listen to your doctor when he says, "Rest is what you need, right now." Why wait, why gamble, when a simple, easy thing like rest can help you get well and back to what you want to do?"

Much more good advice is contained in the folder, advice that all should read, but there is enough meat in the foregoing excerpts to prompt every person to check in for a chest x-ray when the mobile unit comes to town.

Objective Nearly Gained

Announcement Wednesday by Charles Luckman, director of President Truman's food conservation program, that savings already accomplished in the program to provide more grain for Europe has made sufficient progress to warrant the prediction that the ban on certain products may be lifted by the end of December is one more proof of capitalistic efficiency when a demand or urgent request is made upon the American people. If the progress has been made at the expense of the American appetites it has not been in evidence, for our people as a whole look well fed. Many of us could well do without some of the eating practices in which we indulge and in so doing release quantities of good food material for the use of peoples of other lands who find themselves in constant want. A little thoughtfulness on the part of each individual could easily provide the answer to the European food problem and at the same time remove the necessity for any kind of a rationing program in this country.

It has been said that what we Americans waste would feed the rest of the world. That may be an exaggeration, but any garbage collector will tell you that the amount of wasted food hauled to the dump yard is positively criminal. This is a form of bad management, or carelessness, that will inevitably lead to a crisis and in view of the present world political set-up that won't be healthy for these United States. A little frugality practiced in a time of plenty won't hurt us and it will lessen the distance our pride will fall if and when a crisis arrives.

It's funny that a burglar would bother to take money from a safe when there was a locker of big juicy beefsteaks right at hand.

From the number of names appearing on local court dockets it would appear that Heppner is in the throes of a crime wave. It does look a little drab but conditions are not much worse than common. We have an alert police force—that's all.

The principal concern of Heppner citizens this week has been, "Where was I real early Monday morning?"

OREGON CENTENNIAL COMMITTEE

Governor Earl Snell this week appointed a committee of 17 persons to promote plans for the celebration next year of the 100th anniversary of the organizing of Oregon territory. The governor said Oregon should invite Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming to take part in the celebration, since all or parts of those states were included in the territory when it was organized in 1848.

He suggested that, since the American Pioneer Trails association will hold its convention in Portland August 13 and 14, the centennial might be held in conjunction with the convention.

WESTERN GOVERNORS COMING

Governors representing 11 far western states, Alaska and Hawaii will be guests of Oregon December 12 and 13 in Portland where they will attend the Western Governor's convention. States included in the conference are Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii.

SEES NO IMMEDIATE WAR

"It's time we begin to act like we had won a war," Rear Admiral Thomas L. Gatch, hero of the last war, told his home folks in a Navy Day speech in Salem Monday.

"Stop being jittery. Worry kills more people and nations than any other one thing. We can lick Russia and Russia knows it. There is no danger of immediate war as long as the United States maintains armed forces of sufficient strength to keep the wargongers doubtful of their ability to win a shooting war," he stated.

The admiral who has two navy crosses for heroism displayed while he commanded the South Dakota said he had secured a license plate for his automobile that bore a number in the 440,000's. He remarked that there were no proletarians in a country where every family owns an automobile. "There's nothing in Oregon for Stalin to work on," he added.

VETERANS FOR EDUCATION

Twenty-two accredited Oregon colleges have an enrollment of 12,860 veterans who are receiving $65 or more a month from the federal veterans' administration, according to Charles Langdon, regional director of the administration. The schools are nearly all of these schools are nearly all that they were in 1941. A surprising number of ex-

A prolonged ringing of the fire bell Tuesday night caused great excitement. A woodshed at the Clint Gilliam home burned to the ground and only prompt work by the fire department saved their residence and the Fred Lucas home next door.

A company of hunters consisting of Oscar and C. A. Minor, Willard Heren and Dr. A. D. McMurdo invaded the confines of the Blue mountains in the vicinity of the Willow creek basin the last of the week and they returned with two bucks to their credit.

Wednesday, Oct. 24 was Food Conservation day. Students from Heppner High canvassed the city. They met with very few objections to the signing of the cards for this great work.

Bert Palmateer and his bride passed through Cecil on the local Tuesday evening on their return to the home at Morgan.

Irrigon Jonathan apples can be had at all the leading groceries in the county.

FAMOUS 82ND AIRBORNE TAKING ENLISTMENTS FOR PEACETIME ARMY

A campaign to enlist young men into the ranks of the famous 82nd Airborne Division, a part of America's peacetime army, is now under way in Oregon, Captain George R. Smith, officer in charge of the Pendleton main station, Army and Air Force Recruiting service, announced this morning. This drive is aimed primarily at high school graduates interested in working and serving in a seasoned paratroop outfit.

A look at the record will reveal that the 82nd "All American" has chalked up one of the most brilliant battle histories of any Army Division. The highlight of their career came when they operated as the first complete airborne unit to battle the enemy in Europe. The division is now stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., and engaged in extensive training.

One regiment within the division swapped colleges and departments in 1946. With streamlined procedures and more experienced help, 800 veterans' authorizations a day can now be cleared when proper and complete applications are received. Some delays have been caused by slow reports from colleges. Oregon State college has 4500 veterans, approximately 25 per cent more than any other school.

ENLARGE STATE PARK

Silver Creek Falls state park will be enlarged by the gift of 6023 acres adjoining the park proper. The land will be turned over to the state "without any strings attached," according to Raymond Hoyt, regional lands director of the national park service. The unit was obtained by the national park service from Oregon and California lands division and private purchase. The land was developed to some extent by WPA crews and was known as a recreational demonstration project, one of two set up in the nation, the other being on Russian river in California.

CAPITAL MEMORANDA

Arguments closed Monday in State Public Utilities Commissioner Flagg's hearing on P. T. & T. company's request for annual phone rate increases in Oregon of $2,249,000. The state highway commission has approved use of the name of the late Merle R. Chessman, a former member of the commission, for the new ferry boat to operate between Astoria and Megler, Wash. The average wage of workers covered by state unemployment insurance has increased from $206.45 in September 1946 to $232.10 a month this year. There were 25 fatal traffic accidents in Oregon in September. A court attack on the law authorizes lowering of income tax exemptions, as a result of the defeat of the sales tax, is threatened by officials of the Oregon State Grange and others.

Barlow has issued a call for intelligent, physically fit young men, is the 505th Parachute Infantry, which built up as an enviable war record as the division itself. Its initial combat jump was made at Gela, in southern Sicily, with a follow up at Salerno Bay. Later the 505th became the first American unit to liberate a French town during the Normandy campaign.
This regiment is presently carrying out detailed training in winter operations at Pine Camp, N. Y., and it is felt that many qualified young men with ambition will welcome the opportunity to serve with this regiment in all its activities. The recruiting commander reiterated that any young American seeking adventure and the chance to better himself physically and mentally should not overlook this offer to enlist directly into the 82nd Airborne Division.
Not only its battle record but many other points should be kept in mind, he pointed out. Airborne troopers receive fifty dollars a month in addition to the new regular army pay and allowances for length of service. This pay is called parachute jump pay. There is also the opportunity to develop individual skills in gunnery, mechanics, communications and other fields. USAFI study courses are a favorite of the regular army soldier and the 82nd Airborne boasts its share of personnel studying these invaluable courses.
Interested young men are invited to drop in at their nearest recruiting office and read for themselves the history and war record of this crack division. More complete information on a direct enlistment to this outfit may also be secured from Captain George R. Smith, the Army and Air Forces Recruiting offices, room 360, Post Office Bldg., in Pendleton.

Sharks attracted by dead fish killed by under-water blasting were like money in the bank to some Seabees in the forward Pacific areas during the war. The Navy's gun-wielding, Jap-hunting construction workers would shoot the scavenging sharks, remove their backbones, insert a steel rod in each, polish it and sell it as a souvenir cane, some of which sold for as high as $75.
