By Elsa M. Leathers
One of the bodies arriving at New York recently from Europe on the funeral ship was that of Cpl. Marshall Sargent, who lost his life in Germany two years ago. The boat docked Sunday and the body will be forwarded to the distribution center at Auburn, Wash. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Sargent, formerly of Kinzua, now reside at 1279 State St., Weiser, Ida. It has not been learned where interment will be made.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Litchberg spent the week end attending to business in Portland.
Mrs. Pete Porter's son, Joe Alden of Pendleton, came to move her to their new home in Pendleton on Thursday evening. Mrs. Cam Porter and small daughter of Baker also came to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Waters of Fossil, and take Mrs. Porter to Pendleton.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brown, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Baker and Andrew Stalg all attended the eastern Oregon Shrine convention at Baker Saturday, returning Sunday.
Mrs. Stanley Wright and small daughter went as far as Portland with Roy Barnes Friday evening on the way to Renton, Wn. to visit a sister, Mrs. Edwards, and will return by Potlatch, Ida., to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Swanke.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beard and Mrs. Burton Shell and son were shopping and getting medical aid in The Dalles Friday.
Art Robison was visiting in Kinzua the first of the week from Boardman. He was recently discharged from the navy and is at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Robison.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Knowles of Eugene spent part of last week at Camp 5 hunting and are visiting and hunting with the Lee Netts here.

Mrs. Albert Williams of Spray has been visiting her daughters, Mrs. Oscar Adams and family and Mrs. Leland Brisbois and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith and children and Mrs. Loyd Smith of Mayville visited the C. R. Englands on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldy Reeser and daughter moved to their new home at Prineville this week end.

Auto Camp Cabin Destroyed By Fire Monday At Irrigon

By Grace Shoun
Fire starting from a leak in the oil burner of a cookstove destroyed one of the cabins of the Meadow camp Monday morning. The cabin was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Grewell and five children ranging in ages from two and one-half to nine years. Catching in the curtains, the blaze spread rapidly through the cabin and was beyond control by the time the fire truck arrived and destroyed building and contents. A trailer house owned by the Grewells was saved, as were the other cabins in the group. The fire truck had a second call when a fire broke out at Mr. Weyand's. A defective flue was the cause but prompt response by the fire truck saved the property from damage. It was the Don Smith house.

Poultrymen Plan To Save Grain; Oppose Fast Day

Oregon poultrymen are willing and eager to cooperate in grain-saving practices but believe that poultryless days waste instead of save feed, reports Noel L. Bennion, extension poultryman at O.S.C., following the annual meeting of the Oregon Poultry Improvement association at Eugene where he was reelected secretary.

New officers are Lloyd A. Lee, Salem, president; William Tennis, McMinnville, and Virgil Parker, Blachly, directors. Hold-over directors are U. J. Kirk, St. Paul, retiring president; G. W. Avery, Tualatin, and Dr. E. C. Homes, Milwaukie.

Following are 12 suggestions Bennion makes for conserving feed by poultry producers:

1. Cull laying flocks once a week, marketing low producers. This is known as spot culling.
2. Eliminate all male birds unless needed for breeding.
3. Market broilers and fryers at lighter weights.
4. Provide 6 to 8 pounds daily of green feed or roots per 100 birds.
5. Feed a well balanced ration. Skimping increases feed needs per dozen eggs.
6. Feed daily at noon all moist mash or pellets laying hens will consume in 30 minutes.
7. Avoid filling feed hoppers too full.
8. Equip all feed hoppers with lips on the sides so birds cannot bill out the feed and waste it.
9. Make sure birds and houses are free from lice and mites.
10. Three rats consume as much feed as two hens. Eliminate them.
11. Provide a 13-hour day with lights for hens to increase production.
12. Follow best known methods of sanitation to avoid disease and maintain efficient production.

Weather Already Affecting 1948 Grain Prospects

Current trends in market prices for grain already reflect weather reports and crop prospects for 1948, says L. R. Breithaupt, O.S.C. extension agricultural economist. Unfavorable conditions for planting wheat in the Great Plains are affecting livestock feeding operations, also.
Despite government announced goals and price supports for wheat in 1948, the planting of fall-sown grain has been affected by drought during recent weeks in the principal winter wheat states east of the Rockies. Belated rains have somewhat alleviated the drought, however, and prospects are more hopeful.

While adverse for 1948 grain prospects, the dry weather helped mature this year's corn crop. Very little damage was done to grain by frost as had been feared owing to lateness caused by prolonged rains last spring. Even the late planted corn is mostly safe.

General rains in the west have been beneficial for fall-sown grain and late pastures and ranges. Considerable wheat planted west of the Rockies for harvest in 1948 is already up with good stands.

The droughty condition that prevailed for several weeks in the winter wheat area of the western plains affected the demand for feeder cattle. Ordinarily, many cattle are pastured in the fall on wheat pastures in that area. Such pastures will not provide the usual amount of feed. That is one of the factors contributing to smaller numbers of livestock to be fed this winter, Breithaupt reports.

An overall reduction is expected in feeding operations, both cattle and lambs, compared with last season, according to surveys by the USDA bureau of agricultural economics. In addition to short wheat pastures, there is less feed grain, and prices for feed are high. Prices for stockers and feeders are also at near record high levels. The 1947 lamb crop was smaller, leaving fewer lambs to go to feedlots.

Thus, weather conditions during the last several months have affected crop prospects and market prices and conditions to an unusual degree. The outcome at harvest time in 1948 of the winter wheat plantings is still uncertain, but more hopeful than a short time ago, Breithaupt concludes.

Supervisors of the newly organized Boardman Soil Conservation district are now busy planning their program of work to be undertaken through farmer-cooperation in the district. At the regular meeting held last Thursday evening, October 16, the district supervisors set up their district problems, formulating then, a program of long-time objectives to be carried out in solving these problems.
Among the long-time objectives of the district are establishment of a drainage system in the Boardman project, land leveling program to save labor, water, seed and improve crops, weed control program on ditches and

Driver of the car in the ditch failed to yield the right-of-way, even to an ambulance. He ran through a plainly visible stop sign, directly into the path of the ambulance, and was knocked across the road. Driver was killed, and a passenger was injured. Emergency vehicles always have the right-of-way—but at other times, too, it pays to be courteous at intersections. Failure to grant right-of-way ranked second as a cause of motor vehicle deaths in 1946. National Conservation Bureau advises: when in doubt, always yield the right-of-way.
