 November 10, 8 p.m., county agent's office, Heppner: Soil Conservation district supervisors' meeting.
 November 11, 1:30 p.m., Lexington Grange hall: Agricultural Planning Farm Crops sub-committee meetings. Irrigon, West End Extension office, 7:30 p.m.: Agricultural Planning Land Use and Economics sub-committee meetings.

Wednesday, Nov. 12-1:30 p.m.: Court house, Heppner, Boardman Grange hall, 7:30 p.m., Agricultural Planning Land Use and Economics, as well as Conservation, sub-committee meetings.

A. G. Edmondson, Heppner, is the first farmer to place an order for a dairy heifer calf from the Tillamook County Dairy Herd association, this season. These calves become available on November 1, when cows on association test began freshening. Every one of these calves is from a dam with guaranteed high production and is by a purebred registered sire. Jerseys and Guernseys are the only breeds available this year.
 Now is the time to order a dairy heifer to be growing up to replace your milk cow that is getting old.

Morrow County Agricultural Planning reports and recommendations to be gathered by sub-committee groups for the various farm commodities will get underway this week. On Friday afternoon, Nov. 7, H. A. Lindgren, extension animal husbandman, Oregon State college, meets with the livestock group at the county court room to assist in outlining problems for consideration by this sub-committee.
 Dr. T. H. Reed, assistant state veterinarian, will be on hand to discuss animal disease problems. The North Morrow Livestock group will meet Friday evening at 7:30 at the Boardman school gymnasium Harold Cohn, Heppner, is chairman of the livestock sub-committee with Willard Jones, Irrigon, acting as chairman of the North Morrow group.

On this same day, November 12, Art King, extension specialist in soils, Oregon State college, meets with the Conservation sub-committee. These meetings are to be held in the judge's office, court house, 1:30 p.m. and at the Boardman Grange hall, 7:30 p.m.
 These sub-committee meetings are very important to the agriculture of Morrow county. Thru these meetings, reports and recommendations will be made that will determine the extension program to be carried out in Morrow county in years to come. All committee members are urged to attend these meetings.

At a meeting of the Morrow County 4-H Club council held in the county agent's office, Wednesday evening, Oct. 29, plans were made for the Annual Achievement party to be held at the Lexington Grange hall, Friday evening, November 21.
 The program for the evening

All livestock sub-committee members are urged to be present at these meetings.

Next week's schedule of agricultural planning conference sub-committee meetings gets underway with the Farm Crops group meeting at the Lexington Grange hall Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 11, beginning at 1:30. A meeting with the North Morrow county will be held Tuesday evening at the Irrigon Irrigation office beginning at 7:30. E. R. Jackson, extension specialist in farm crops, Oregon State college, will meet with the farm crops group.
 On Wednesday, Nov. 12, the Land Use and Economics sub-committee will meet at the county court room in Heppner beginning at 1:30. The north end group will meet that evening at the Boardman Grange hall, J. R. Beck, land use specialist, Oregon State college, will meet with these groups.

On Sunday, November 2, a re-organization meeting of the Morrow county beef club was held at the Lexington Grange hall, with 56 parents and children present.
 Four-H club record books were completed, Pacific International Livestock show checks for fat beef sold presented and the club reorganized.
 Due to the increasing number of members of this club, it was necessary to divide the club into two groups. Officers were elected with Elmer Palmer selected to lead a club with Allen Hughes as president, Pat Cutsforth, vice-president; Peggy Wightman, secretary, and Neil Beamer, club reporter. Jimmy Wightman, Jimmy Green, Eddie Brosnan, Johnny Brosnan, Ronald Currin, Roger Palmer and Sally Palmer are members.

 Another group led by Markham Baker elected Lewis Carlson, president; Ingrid Hermann, vice-president; Barbara Sherman, secretary, and Betty Graves, club reporter. Members are Jane Seehafer, Nancy Sherman, Ronald Baker, Duane Baker, Dean Graves, Kenneth Cutsforth, Fritz Cutsforth, Janet Howton and Reta Graves.
 John Graves was selected as assistant leader by each of these clubs.

Several 4-H clubs are being reorganized and new clubs organized this week in keeping with National 4-H Club week. Mrs. Ruth McCabe, Ione, was the first leader to reorganize her 4-H club for the new club year. Mrs. McCabe organized a room improvement project club with Ingrid Hermann, Ruby Ann Rietmann, Lola Ann McCabe, Carletta Olden and Patricia Drake as members. She also organized a clothing III club with the same members.

National 4-H Club week is being observed this week with window displays at the Swanson's grocery store, Ione; Van Horn grocery, Lexington, and Heppner branch of the First National bank. Talks are being given by several 4-H club members. Louis Carlson spoke on his 4-H club experiences at the chamber of commerce luncheon Monday.

while Ronald and Duane Baker will present a question and answer skit at the lone school and Rhea Creek grange this week. Betty Graves and Barabura Sherman are also giving a question and answer skit for the Heppner school assembly and Lexington grange this week.

You do not have to leave the kitchen to give first aid to that sudden spot on your dress from popping grease. Corn starch or corn meal are excellent for taking up fresh grease spots. Whether it be on that clean blouse or the dining room rug, corn starch or corn meal poured on the stain immediately will absorb most of it. This is true also of liquids.

For some food stains, blood stains on upholstery, mattresses or blankets, make a thick paste of corn starch and water. Allow the paste to dry, then brush, repeating until all of the stain disappears.
 For grease spots that aren't entirely fresh, make a paste of corn starch and cleaning fluid. Apply in the same manner.

Guy Chapin of Hardman was attending to business matters in Heppner the first part of the week.
 Among those attending the social and dance at Hardman Saturday night were Mrs. Walter Farrens, Mrs. Harvey Harshman, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fraters and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Waggoner.
