Cricket Control Meeting Scheduled

Arrangements have been made to hold a cricket control meeting in Arlington on Thursday, February 19, according to Nelson Anderson, Morrow county agricul tural agent, Representatives from Gilliam and Morrow counties wil meet with specialists from Oregon State college and the bureau of entomology at 1:30 p.m. in the Vendome hotel.

The seriousness of the cricket menace is fully recognized by residents of the two counties and the specialists alike and the plan is to meet early enough to formulate a campaign of extermination of eggs and thus prevent further migration of the destroy-

Anderson said he thought there was little likelihood that freezing weather had affected the crickets. Experiments have proved that the eggs can be frozen and thawed repeatedly without hurting them. About the only time they may be made infertile by freezing is to catch them at just about the hatching stage, and the weather can't be depended on for that. Poison is the only effective method and it is expected a prohas been postponed until further gram will be mapped out for notice by the Union Missionary distributing and feeding the potent agent to the crickets.
