Girl Scouts Have Month of Activity

The month of February is International Month wherever there is Girl Scouting or Girl Guiding. During this month the girls try to give special thought to things that are of importance to all people, such as good will, peace, and health. February 22 is "Thinking Day," the birthday of both Lord and Lady Baden-Powell who founded both Girl and Boy Scouts.

In keeping with the theme of the month the members of troop I are compiling material which will later be put into scrap-books. These are to be sent overseas to help teach foreign children about our country.

On February 9 the girls had a Valentine party. They exchanged valentines which they had made themselves. Barbara Warren received a prize for the most original one, and Sandra Lanham, a prize for the prettiest. Games were played and refreshments were served by Mrs. Howard Keithley and Mrs. Cornett Green.
 At their meeting on the 16th the girls were given a personality sketch and an international quiz. Different kinds of quizzes are presented once each month. The girls are divided into two patrols. At the end of the year the patrol who has won the most times will be entertained at a party given by the losing patrol.

TRACTION

WITH A LIGHT TREAD

Even on a soft seeded a "Caterpillar" Diesel's broad tracks stay on top of the soil. Tractor weight is so well distributed over the tracks that they act like bridge planks... and put less pressure on the soil than a man's foot exerts.

By treading well up on top of soft soil, tracks have low rolling resistance—less power needed to move the tractor means more payload power.
