City Offers Rodeo Grounds To County For Fair Purposes

Reverter Clause May Hinder Deal From Being Closed

A reopening of city-county negotiations concerning more of the city's property constituted the main business which called for a special meeting of the Heppner council Monday evening. It had to do with a request from the Morrow county fair board for control of the Rodeo field and that that control be acquired early enough to permit inclusion of the grounds in this year's fair program.

There appeared to be no objection on the city's part to turning the whole property over to the fair board to be used for the purpose set up in the request. However, to protect the city against the possibility of future unpleasantness, the council insisted upon a reverter clause which would be in force at any time the fair board failed to use the grounds for the purposes for which they are sought. By inserting the reverter clause, the fair board will have to submit the transaction to the state attorney for an opinion and pending that opinion it is not known whether the property will pass from the city's control.

If the city's offer is approved by the attorney general and the fair board takes over, a program will be worked out to make a fine fair set-up. It has been the desire of the fair board to cooperate with the Heppner Rodeo association in building up a combined show and fair and perhaps work out an entirely new type of entertainment. The Rodeo association has signified a willingness to cooperate and if the present deal goes through there may be a different program this fall.

Pastor Joe Jewett Accepts Invitation To Baker Church

Members of the congregation of the Heppner Church of Christ received a surprise Sunday morning when the pastor, Joe Jewett, announced that he was resigning his ministry here to accept the pastorate of the Church of Christ at Baker. He expects to take over the new charge on May 1.

Mr. Jewett stated that it had not been an easy matter for him to make up his mind to leave the local church, which he has served the past two years to the satisfaction of his congregation, and that affairs at Baker served as a challenge to him which finally resulted in making the choice.

Coming here from Milton, Mr. Jewett has ingratiated himself with his congregation and the community alike. Not alone will the church here miss his pastorate but the valuable services of Mrs. Jewett as well. An old saying seems pertinent to this situation—that is Heppner's loss is Baker's gain.

Entertainment Is Ghost's Main Dish

Fairs were treated to a rousing evening of basketball at the high school gym Tuesday evening when the Heppner Townies met the Colored Ghosts, a traveling Negro team, famous for their basketball ability and showmanship. In addition to this game, two preliminaries were played between the fairs and Heppner grammar school teams. Between games, the crowd was entertained by the Heppner school band and baton twirlers.

County Agent News...

Plans for a Mormon cricket control program were made at the meeting held at the Vendome hotel, Arlington, last Thursday afternoon. Representatives of the U.S.D.A. bureau of entomology and grasshopper control and Oregon State college met with the Morrow-Gilliam Cricket Control association and farmers from Morrow, Gilliam and Umatilla counties.

Ryane Thrallkill and Harvey Summers, bureau of entomology and grasshopper control, reported that the cricket infestation in this area covered an additional 200 square miles compared to last year's infestation, with serious infestation covering 7,500 acres in Morrow county, 600 in Gilliam county, and 600 acres in Sherman county. Light and moderate infestations account for the remaining acreage. They further reported that the main baiting station and central office would be stationed at Boardman, with a hatch mixer at Shuttler flat. Equipment to be used for baiting that can be supplied by the bureau is limited, and all farmers were asked to cooperate in making bait spreaders available by purchasing or making one or more. Plans for construction of power baiters are available at this office.

Gene Durant, manager of the Farmer Air Service, Klamath Falls, was present and offered a plane for baiting at $20 per hour. Funds for plane hire or other control methods are available through a remaining account of $2,700 which is left from the voluntary contributions made by farmers in Gilliam and Morrow counties in 1947.

Interest in tree planting for farm windbreaks and shelter is running high in Morrow county this year. However, much more interest could be shown if all farms were to have a planting around their farm buildings.

Glen Carpenter, Boardman; E. S. Pelton and C. A. Miller, Irrigon; Cecil Thorne, Morgan, and Bert Peck, Lexington, have ordered 3,450 trees during the past week. Trees are available thru the state forestry nursery, Corvallis, at $2.50 per 1000. Orders must reach the nursery by March 1, so only a few days are left if you expect to get trees this year.

To the over-anxious Freedom Gardener who has spent the winter months studying seed catalogues and is only waiting for a glimmer or two of sunshine for an excuse to lustle out and start planting his home garden, R. Ralph Clark, O.S.C. extension service horticulturist, has but one word of caution: Wait!

It is still February, the horticulturist declares, and the ground is still wet. Early in March will be time enough to start what is termed an "early garden" in eastern Oregon—depending, of course, upon the weather. Three excellent early garden vegetables are peas, lettuce and spinach.

There are two common fallacies among inexperienced gardeners, Clark states. One is rushing the planting season. The second error is planting all of the seed at once instead of setting for a few rows of hardy vegetables. Of course, garden failures too often are the result.

Clark points out that now is a good time for the city gardener to be shopping around to locate a Freedom Garden plot. Then, he says, clear all weeds and such foreign material as brush, posts, bricks or wire which will interfere with spading or plowing. Do the gardener who expects to have a commercial ploverman prepare his garden plot. It is time to be arranging to have the work done. Plowmen, none too plentiful at best, are likely to be booked up later, Clark advises.

As a test to determine when the garden plot is ready to work, Clark suggests this: Spade up a shovelful of soil; take a handful; firm it gently with the fingers. After releasing the fingers, if the mounded soil in the palm cracks readily and will crumble when gently touched, it is ready to plow or spade. If plowing is done while the ground is wet, the gardener will be fighting clods all summer.

To the gardener thinking about fertilizer supplies, Clark states commercial fertilizer, although available, will be in short supply again this year. He recommends an application of barnyard manure for garden plots ahead of plowing.

Hunters, Anglers To Meet March 3

Joe Aiken has accepted the portfolio of general factotum of the somewhat slumbering Hunters and Anglers club and is attempting to revive the organization. As a first step in that direction he has called a meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday, March 3 at the American Legion hall, at which time a reorganization will be effected and new officers elected.

Bill Isom took over the destinies of the club after J. Logie Richardson left and succeeded in keeping the streams stocked with trout and in getting releases of game birds in the county. With his departure from the county sportsmen's affairs lagged until Aiken decided to give some attention to them.

HOME EC PARTY

A party previously scheduled for February 14 and postponed because of weather conditions has been definitely set for Saturday evening, February 28, by the Home Ec. club of Rhea Creek Grange. The party will start at 6:30 p.m. with a potluck supper. The HEC will furnish clam chowder and the guests are asked to take vegetable salad or dessert. Games and cards will round out the evening.

Clark points out that now is a good time for the city gardener to be shopping around to locate a Freedom Garden plot. Then, he says, clear all weeds and such foreign material as brush, posts, bricks or wire which will interfere with spading or plowing. Do the gardener who expects to have a commercial ploverman prepare his garden plot. It is time to be arranging to have the work done. Plowmen, none too plentiful at best, are likely to be booked up later, Clark advises.

Half Century In County Observed By Hynd Family

This week marked an important milestone for the Hynd brothers, prominent stockmen and pioneer family of this locality, when on February 24 they observed the 50th anniversary of their arrival in Oregon from their former home in Ontario, Canada. At that time, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hynd, Will, Dave, Miss Annie and Maggie (now Mrs. M. L. Case) settled on the Rose Lawn ranch in the Sand Hollow district. Charles and Jack, two older brothers, had preceded the family to Oregon some years before. Beginning with just the Rose Lawn ranch and a few cattle and sheep, the Hynd Brothers company has grown until at the present time it is one of the largest land owners and stock operators in eastern Oregon. Other ranches owned and operated by Hynd Brothers include The Pines at Ukiah, Butterby Flats at Ceell and the Freezeout range land. In 1944, having sold the Rose Lawn ranch to Orville Cutsforth of Lexington, Will, Dave and Miss Annie Hynd moved to Heppner and reside in the former Notson house on Gale street.

Personal Property Returns Lagging; Many Face Penalty

A lot of people are going to pay a lot of extra taxes in the form of penalties unless there is a general rush to the assessor's office during the next few days. This is the report coming from the office of Assessor W. O. Dix, who states that the taxpayers are evidently not aware of the March 1 deadline for making the personal property returns.

It may be that the tardy taxpayers can't bring themselves to realize that spring is about here, but the calendar doesn't hold back on account of the weather and according to the calendar this is February 26, leaving three more days in which to file reports. Failure to make the returns will be felt keenly beginning with Monday next, when for each day reports are not turned in it will cost the delinquent filer $10. Better think this over and hustle to the court house, pronto!

A SLIGHT ERROR

Contrary to the best efforts of Gazette Times reporters to keep the record straight, an occasional error creeps in. This is what happened last week when it was reported that Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Holliday were the parents of a baby girl. They might have been just as happy had it been a girl but it didn't turn out that way. They have named their young son Forest Noland.

Heppner To Play Culver In First Round Of Tourney

School Folks Go To The Dalles To Back Local Champs
Heppner 31, Culver 15.
The Mustangs will play again Friday evening.

Heppner high school, winner of top spot in the sub-district B tournament at Fossil last week end, was scheduled to play Culver in the opening round of the district B tourney at The Dalles. Play was to start at 3 o'clock. The Mustangs were not to be without sideline backing, for several carloads of school folk left at noon to be on hand when play starts.

Coach Pate's Mustangs rode high, wide and handsome to win first honors in the Wheat league sub-district tournament at Fossil last week end. Four more evenly matched teams would be difficult to find in any one league, the outcome of all games but one being in doubt until the final gong.

The play opened with Heppner shading favored Condon, 30-29. Heppner led all the way but had an 8-point lead cut to one at the bell.

The second game saw Arlington nose out Fossil 24-22 in the last minute of play.

In Friday's opener Fossil thoroughly subdued a listless Condon team, 38-21.

The most thrilling game of the tournament saw the Mustangs win first honors by eeking out Arlington, 36-34, in an overtime. Again the Mustangs led practically all the game but a last minute goal by Bailey sent the game into an overtime period at 32-all.

Arlington scored first in the overtime, then fouled Padberg on a lay-in with 30 seconds to go. This Mustang made both shots good to tie the score. With 10 seconds to go Padberg stole the ball, maneuvered into position and let fly a long one that swished thru the net. Time expired before the Honkers could get the ball
