County Agent News
 Printing of the 1947 annual report of the Heppner Soil Conservation district has just been completed. The report is complete with accomplishments for the past year and is illustrated with pictures of conservation practices carried out by cooperators of the district. The report will be mailed to all farmers in the district within a few days. Anyone who does not receive a copy and is interested can have one by calling at the county agent's office.

First report of weed control of the season to come to this office is from the Social Ridge country. Vernon Munkers, Roy Campbell & Sons, Kenneth Peck, and Bill Van Winkle have sprayed approximately 400 acres of wheat for control of annual weeds. Spraying began March 1 but the sprayer was not used continuously during the week.

The sprayer being used is a high pressure Hardie with pressure cut to about 150 pounds. The boom, manufactured by these farmers during the winter months, is 40 feet in length with size 22 Monarch nozzles spaced 15 inches at the boom. Castor wheels are used to support the boom and maintain a uniform height for proper application. The sprayer boom and attachment is arranged properly for best coverage and results.
 Isopropyl ester liquid 2-4-D at the rate of 1 1/2 pints in 10 gallons of water per acre is being used. Results of the spraying is very favorable as weeds are showing signs of dying even though the weather has been cold and unfavorable for application of 2-4-D.

Tom Fraters, Heppner has just finished constructing a Nevada type cattle chute with plans made available at this office. Mr. Fraters is well satisfied with the chute and looking forward to being able to handle his cattle in a more efficient manner.
 Plans for this type of chute and others are available at this office.

The California drought situation is becoming worse and letters from cattle and sheep associations, California Extension service and ranch operations are beginning to come to this office. Livestock pasture and hay is badly needed and as a result they are appealing to Oregon to assist in finding means of saving their livestock. The first shipment of cattle from this area came into Oregon last week.
 This situation brings on several complications that our ranchers should realize before cattle are brought into this area. First, California cattle have several diseases which are not found in Oregon. Other diseases which we have may become worse. For this reason all cattle that are moved in must be properly inspected and certified free of disease. Even then there are possibilities of some diseases getting by and livestock owners should be on the alert to spot disease outbreaks.

Cattle should not be moved here in such numbers as to create a feed shortage here next winter. The cattle that are moving into Oregon from the drought areas are extremely thin in flesh. Purchasers will need to look ahead and be certain that sufficient feed is in sight to put them in marketable condition. In view of the extremely thin condition of these cattle, purchasers can expect more than normal losses, either on the range or in the feed lot.

OREGON TEACHERS TO CONVENE IN PORTLAND
 More than 3,000 Oregon teachers are expected to gather in Portland on April 1, 2 and 3 for the 45th annual convention of the Oregon Education association.

The convention is an annual feature of the Oregon school and brings together about one-third of all teachers for Portland's biggest annual convention. General sessions will be held in the Portland Civic Auditorium, the only indoor meeting place in Portland large enough to accommodate the group.

Principal speakers at the convention will include Maurice Hindus, widely known author and lecturer; Dr. Wayne Morse, senator from Oregon; Ethel J. Alpenfels, noted New York anthropologist, and Dr. Glenn E. Snow, president of the National Education association.

Hindus will speak at the general session meeting Thursday morning, April 1. His subject is "Russia and America—War or Peace?" He is the author of such books as "Red Bread," "Mother

Russia," and "To Sing With the Angels."
 Teachers will attend the meetings of 22 departments which are holding gatherings in conjunction with the convention.
