HOW WE GIVE YOUR VOICE A "LIFT"

1. It takes power, and lots of it, to push millions of telephone calls through our complex equipment every day. We buy our electricity, as you do, from public service sources. But to make sure calls keep going through in emergencies, we have many motor-driven standby generators to supply our own power when necessary.

3. When you pick up your telephone, you put electricity to work as it gives your voice a lift along wires and through switching panels. It takes little power to handle one call. But handling millions takes a lot. It makes us one of the West's big users of electricity. And it all adds up as part of our cost of furnishing telephone service.

2. Giant batteries... or many smaller ones... catch the "juice" and release it as the direct current that sends your voice over our system. The number of calls we're handling today makes even these huge reserves run down quickly. They must be charged continually from public power sources or our own emergency generators.

4. Your telephone is more valuable today than ever before. For since 1940, telephones on the Coast have increased 75%. Today you can reach more people... more people can get in touch with you. Each new telephone added makes your telephone a more valuable servant.
