

Family, Friends Pay Final Tribute To Clyde Edwards

Funeral services for PFC Clyde Owen Edwards were held Sunday afternoon in the Congregational church with the American Legion in charge. Rev. Sorlien, chaplain of Heppner Legion Post No. 87, conducted the services, assisted by Commander Willard Blake. Leonard Munkers sang two beautiful numbers, "In the Garden of Tomorrow" and "The Silent Voice," accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Carmichael. Active pallbearers all in uniform, were Dean Hunt, Bill Nichols, Roy Martin, Paul Brown, Joe Way and Kenneth Way. Honorary pallbearers were C. C. Carmichael, Ralph Skoubo, Clarence Buchanan, Roger Campbell, Bill Padberg and George Griffith. Clyde, known to all his friends as "Tige," was born in Lexington, October 23, 1926. He attended both grade and high school in Lexington. During his senior year he enlisted in the Marine corps, on December 21, 1943. He reported for duty on January 27, 1944, at San Diego, California, where he received his boot training. After a short furlough at home he reported back to Camp Pendleton near Oceanside, California. There he was assigned to the Fifth Division. In July, 1944 this division went overseas for further training in the Hawaiian Islands. They were there until January 1945 when they embarked for Iwo Jima. Clyde went in on the initial invasion, Feb. 19. He was killed March 5 while advancing under heavy mortar fire. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Edwards; three sisters, Edith Edwards of Spokane, Mrs. H. M. Marrs of San Diego, Cal., and Elizabeth Lynch of Heppner; two brothers, Albert Edwards of Heppner, and John at home. Graveside services were conducted by the American Legion post of Heppner.

Out-of-town relatives here for the funeral of Clyde Edwards were Edith Edwards of Spokane, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Greenwood, Frances Harpole, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Haskins, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Haskins and Carl Preston, all of Spokane, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taylor of Portland. M/Sgt. Stanley Miller, USMC, who escorted the remains home and his mother, Mrs. Lena Miller, Kelso, Wash., were also guests at the Edwards home.

TRIBUTE

(From a Friend)
I feel sure there are many in Morrow county who will agree with me that the loss of "Tige" Clyde Edwards merits more than a mere casual notice.
His place as a student and a citizen entitles him to an esteemed spot in our memories. Clyde was a boy of high ideals, and high ambition. Only the people who knew him WELL, realized his genius ability. He was also a boy of unswerving loyalty to his family, his friends, his country and his God. His sense of justice and fair play is seldom equalled.

No one could follow the inner sincerity of Clyde but his classmates and closest associates.

His passing from this community has left many of us with a feeling of keenest regret that we shall not again see his "ever-ready" smile and hear his cheerful voice, yet we are proud that we have had the privilege of knowing as fine an American boy as Clyde who proved to be loyal and faithful to his last.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Breshears spent several days last week visiting their daughter, Mrs. Helen Crump, in The Dalles. Mrs. Breshears was a delegate to the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, held Tuesday in The Dalles. Mrs. C. C. Carmichael and Mrs. C. C. Jones left Sunday to spend a few days in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Way and Joe Way of Portland spent their week end at home, visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Way. Mrs. Emma Breshears has received word of the birth of a 10 pound son to Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gibson in The Dalles, April 20. He has been named Paul Douglas.

Mrs. Ina Nichols has returned home after a visit in Portland at the home of her son, Cletus Nichols.
Don't forget to come out to the program Friday night in the school auditorium. This is being put on by all the local organizations for the benefit of the school. There will be a supper served, beginning at 6 o'clock.

Rev. and Mrs. George Hatch have moved their household goods here and are settled in the Christian church parsonage.

IONE ITEMS . . . . .

Mrs. Roy Lindstrom returned from the St. Anthony's hospital in Pendleton Saturday, but left her daughter, Susan Katherine, there for a few days.

Gariand Swanson is having a well drilled on his property above town. He expected to build there in the near future.

The Catholic church is nearing completion. Most all the interior work is done and they are getting ready to pour the cement for the floor in the basement.

C. W. O. Wiley Benefiel of Portland spent the week end with the E. A. Stephens family. He took his family home. They had spent the week here.

Mr. and Mrs. Phaneuf and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Phaneuf have taken possession of the Mart Abken store and apartment. Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Riley have moved back of the store into a trailer house.

Mr. and Mrs. Abken and Glenda will be here for about two more weeks.

Harvey Warner, Jack Browning and Glen O'Brien and Rev. A. B. Turner finished hauling the Assembly of God parsonage lumber from Hermiston Monday evening. Glen O'Brien and Rev. Turner have been working on the ground getting it ready for the excavation of the basement. They used the B. P. Rand truck for hauling.

Mrs. Reece Morgan went to Vancouver Monday.
Mrs. Jeanie Grim is spending a few days in the Pendleton hospital for a check up.
John Volle is able to be out some after a long illness.

News From C. A. Office

Ten steers fed a mixture of chopped alfalfa, grass hay, cull peas and wheat made the most economical weight gains in a recent feed lot experiment carried out at the Eastern Oregon Livestock Experiment station at Union, reports Harry A. Lindgren, O.S.C. extension service livestock specialist.

Information on the results was distributed by Station Superintendent Harry Avery and his assistant, Russell McKennon, at their annual feeds day held recently.

Six pens of 10 steers each were shown to the 200 visitors who gathered from all over eastern Oregon to see the results of feeding trials. A pen of 10 animals that received a heavy feeding of chopped alfalfa, grass hay and wheat actually put on the most weight. However, Lindgren points out that these cattle were the second most expensive to feed per pound of gain.

All of the animals in the feed trials were graded by Joe Campbell, Portland livestock buyer as a feature of the field day. Ninety percent of the animals graded "choice"; the remainder fell into the "good" class. It was pointed out that the animals were ready for market at least a month ahead of schedule. A partial explanation of the excellent showing was that all of the steers came off good pasture last fall prior to their going into the feed lot. Avery stressed the importance of having steers on good pasture before the feeding period commences. Steers put on cheap weight that way, he explained.

Cost of gain in the feeding experiment varied from 25 cents to slightly over 29 cents per pound. In connection with feed lot weight gains, Lindgren says that a feeder ordinarily will not make money on the weight put on during the feeding period. Usually the cost of gain is as much or more than the price per pound at the time of sale. Feeders make their money on the increased value of the original weight.

FIGHT FACED TO KEEP OUT DREAD POULTRY DISEASE

An additional 10 cases of the dread Newcastle disease of poultry have been encountered in Oregon since the first case was diagnosed in the poultry disease laboratory at Oregon State college in January 1947, declares Dr. E. M. Dickinson, veterinarian of the experiment station in charge of the laboratory.

Newcastle disease is now widespread along the Atlantic coast through the Midwest and in California, while it affects turkeys as well as chickens, all the Oregon cases so far have been found in chicken flocks.

To keep Newcastle disease from becoming a widespread problem in Oregon will require close cooperation between all persons concerned with poultry production, Dr. Dickinson points out. He says chicks as well as grown birds are susceptible and may be carriers of the disease. Out-of-state purchases of birds are safe only after complete investigation of the source flock.

The disease is an acute, contagious respiratory ailment that is marked during the early stages by gasping and difficulty in feeding. This symptom is usually followed by lack of coordination, paralysis or tremor in the birds. It is not necessarily fatal. In brooder chicks, mortality usually runs about 25 percent. A sudden drop in egg production can be expected in laying flocks affected. Eggs laid during Newcastle outbreak may have a higher percentage of soft or deformed shells.

Dr. Dickinson emphasizes that survivors of an attack of Newcastle disease, all apparently recovered, may become "healthy carriers" of the infection. Thus, they endanger other susceptible birds.

Wherever Newcastle disease is suspected in poultry flocks, Dr. Dickinson urges that county agents be contacted immediately.
