Half a million dollars a day

That's what we're putting to work in new telephone facilities for the West.

Where does the money come from?

1. Making the telephone system grow takes money and lots of it...we're spending an average of half a million dollars every day for new facilities in the Pacific West. Some might think all this money comes from telephone bills...or from profits. But that's not the case in this business.

2. This lady, for example, may have furnished the money for that pole above. For we must get money to grow from investors who put their savings into the business. The bills you pay go for payroll, taxes and other operating costs—and for small "wages" for the money of investors.

3. Somebody must put up a lot more money for each new telephone we add today than was necessary before the war. Costs have gone up for us as they have for you. As we put in more and more new telephones, the expensive new portion becomes a larger part of the whole system.

4. Getting telephones to people who are waiting is our big job. And we can attract new working dollars and keep up the installation pace only if we sell our services at adequate prices. These prices must cover operating costs and leave a moderate profit, too...the profit that pays our investors for the use of their savings.
