In this growing region... Every Kilowatt Counts

Be thrifty in the use of hot water from your electric water heater. You'll save money, and you'll be helping to save kilowatts. That's important, for enormous growth in industry and population has increased the demand for electricity. Peak power needs here in the Pacific Northwest have jumped 1,448,000 kilowatts, or 57%, since the end of the war. Every unit of electricity has a big job to do, so use it wisely. Save money and be comfortably supplied with hot water by following the tips listed below. You'll also be saving electricity for a fast-growing Pacific Northwest.

HOW TO SAVE...

- Be sure water taps are turned off tight. Replace worn washers. Steeping dips saves wear, also saves your hot water supply.
- Set the dial control on your automatic water heater at temperature consistent with your needs. Most homes don't need water excessively hot.
- Use only as much hot water as you need for bath, shower, washing clothes. Heaters must work harder to bring temperature of cold water up again, after tank is drained.

MILLIONTH Postwar telephone added

How we've put in telephones almost three times as fast as ever before in the West

1. Here is Ashley Stone of Sacramento, California, whose daddy and mother got the millionth telephone we've added since V-J Day. To make this gain, we've actually had to install three million telephones... for many of our customers have moved their homes and businesses. Telephones we serve are now at an all-time high... over 3,630,000.

2. We've literally built a city spread over the West... hundreds of new buildings and major additions. New wire has been strung... new cables laid... an astounding total of three million miles. And we're rushing still more construction—half a million dollars worth, every day—to meet the public demand for service.

3. An amazing amount of new equipment of all kinds has gone to work. We've filled three times as many orders as were waiting on V-J Day. To add these million telephones, we had to get $400,000,000 of new money from investors. Orders still pour in, and our job is not yet done. But we're working at it mighty hard.

4. Millions of new working dollars... needed to extend and improve service... must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This depends on the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.
