

News From C. A. Office

Clarence A. Warren, Hepner, has submitted the bin sample of his Rex M-1 seed wheat to Oregon State college for completion of certification. The 100 acres of Rex that Mr. Warren is certifying passed field inspection last June. When this field is completed it will bring the wheat acreage grown in Morrow county this year to 940 acres. While records on seed certification in Morrow county reach back but to twenty years ago it is believed that this is the largest certified acreage ever grown here. This is a healthy situation for our county since this seed is used locally—and clean seed is an improvement over impure any time. Growers of the certified seed besides Mr. Warren are Kenneth Sprouse, Ione, and Frank Anderson, Hepner, who are growing Rex M-1 with Bill Barratt, Hepner, growing Elgin.

While we are talking of certified seed wheat, many farmers of the lower area of the county will be interested to know that an acreage of certified Orfed will be grown here this next crop year.

L. L. Howton, Hepner, who was very well satisfied with the Orfed grown on his farm the past year has found a source of certified Orfed in Washington, the only source in the Pacific Northwest and is seeding about seventy acres of the variety. E. M. Baker, Ione, is seeding approximately two hundred acres of the same source of seed.

To make sure that we will have some of this seed eligible for certification, several small plots are being grown by 4-H and FFA members. These small plots can be rogued and kept clean and

Club News

All agricultural 4-H club members are reminded of the 4-H club meeting which will be held at the L. L. Howton farm, Sunday afternoon, October 24.

This will be the last 4-H club meeting of the club year. There are some 4-H record books and secretary books yet to be completed and unfinished business which will be taken care of. While this meeting is not the reorganization meeting for the new club year, anyone interested in joining a livestock club is invited to attend. The new club year which starts November 1, will mean a reorganization of existing clubs, new officers elected and plans made for the year. This reorganization meeting for livestock clubs will be held in early November, the date to be decided upon at the Sunday meeting.

The first farm crops 4-H projects to be carried in Morrow county for a good many years—in fact there is no record of any in the past fifteen years in the county agent's office—were enrolled last week. Duane and Ronald Baker, Ione, and Fritz Cutsforth, Lexington, are the members enrolled. The leader has not been selected, however it is planned that these projects will be carried along as extra projects of one of the agricultural clubs in which these members will be enrolled.

The projects, consisting of certified Orfed seed wheat production, will be in cooperation with a program initiated by the Pacific Northwest Crop Improvement association. Duane and Ronald Baker will grow 42 acres with Fritz Cutsforth growing 12 acres of the Orfed for certification.

The program is one where the crop improvement association is encouraging certified seed wheat production of desirable varieties for local seed supply. They are assisting the club member in

THIS WEEK IN HISTORY

October 17 to October 27 (By the Editors of the World Book Encyclopedia.)

On October 17, 1781—167 years ago this week—General George Washington completed a master stroke of military strategy that ended the war between America and Great Britain. Washington, arranging his troops at New York as if to launch a heavy attack, suddenly wheeled his army to the west. He had almost reached Philadelphia before the British were aware of his real aim. By then it was too late. Washington's armies lay across all avenues of escape by land, and the French fleet, which had helped Washington in his battles, blocked escape by sea. It was then that General Charles Cornwallis surrendered the British armies, conceding to America the victory.

marketing his wheat and offer to guarantee a twenty-five per cent premium on any of the certified seed which cannot be sold locally. This applies to a ten acre plot for each club member.

Bob Fletcher, field secretary for the Pacific Northwest Crop Improvement association, spent Wednesday, October 13, with the county agent in getting these projects under way.

Drivers License Cards Improved

A self-contained renewal application and other improvements have been incorporated in Oregon's license cards now being issued. Secretary of State Earl T. Newby has announced. Licenses to be used from now on are of better paper stock than was available during the war and are expected to stand up well in wallets and purses, eliminating much of the duplicate license problem. Newby emphasized that the new cards will not replace valid licenses now outstanding.

The new permit is folded to the same size as the old single card. The inside of the little folder has become an application blank to be used for renewal by mail. This is the first time such a form has ever been issued, the secretary said.

licenses by mail is a constant source of difficulty because of failure to include full information or correct fee, resulting in heavy correspondence from his office. The self-contained renewal form is expected to eliminate most of this trouble.

Another feature of the new licence is a space for recording the holder's blood type. If known, for emergency use by a doctor in case of accident. The remainder of the card is similar to the old one, with identification.
