County Agent News . . .

Newest treatment for mastitis or garget in milk cows is penicillin in form of a small sick which is inserted into the teat canal of the infected quarter. The treatment is simple with excellent results obtained when the infection is caused from streptococcus agalactiae, the "bug" that causes the disease.

FARM MACHINERY NEEDS WINTER PROTECTION

Winter is approaching and in my travels about the county I see many combines and other farm machinery that is still setting out, unprotected from the weather. With the present high cost of machinery and at that not too easy to purchase, it is worth a little extra effort to protect it from the weather.

From a practical standpoint, any cover that will shed water will do. Many farmers are building machine sheds throughout the county and this is something that is encouraged and will pay off large dividends.

When a machine is stored after use, it is always best to give the machine a complete oiling or greasing, and then briefly operate the machine so that all bearing surfaces have oil on them to prevent rusting. If the machine, for any reason, was left out in the rain, greasing will flush the water out of bearing areas and protect these surfaces from rusting.

With winter not many weeks away there is little time left in which to complete conservation practices under the 1948 AAA program. Early frosts and bad weather often end conservation work before projects are completed. Every bit of conservation work that can be completed will mean that much more soil saved or water conserved.

4-H HELP PRAISED

The County Home Extension committee stresses the importance of 4-H club work. We are proud of the work done by Morrow county boys and girls. We are grateful for the work done by club leaders. Parents who give so much encouragement, patience and time are especially commended. We feel sure that the work in the coming year will be most outstanding.

Signed Mrs. Ralph Thompson, Mrs. George Currin, Mrs. Vernon Munkers, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. Markham Baker, Mrs. Ernest Heliker.

Mrs. George Currin, Heppner, was elected at the County Home Extension committee meeting on Monday to fill out the one year term ending in May left vacant by the resignation of Mrs. W. E. Hughes, Heppner.

RANDOM THOUGHTS . . .

Continued from First Page Penney company store, for a nice new book, "Main Street Merchant," by Norman Bessley. It is the story of the J. C. Penney company, from the humble beginning of a lad who worked in the home town mercantile establishment to learn the business and for which during the first year he drew wages of approximately two dollars and fifty cents per month, up to the present when J. C. Penney, the multi-millionaire takes time off from business to indulge in some of his hobbies. The book will be on sale shortly and it should prove an inspiration to aspiring youth who wish to become something more than "just another guy."

joy your company in the living room instead of your being in the kitchen all day.

As to fun--try this on your guests--young or old. While you are still too full to move from the table, have everyone place hands under the table. Then you pass 10 or so small objects in succession which they do not see. Each player feels the objects mentally, decides what each is and passes it on around the table.

When the last object has completely circled the table, pass out pencil and paper so that guests can write down list of objects from memory. You can give a small prize for winner. Select items of Thanksgiving nature such as pine cones, apples, onion, turkey feather, squash, tooth pick, grape, turkey bone, pine cone turkey, toy pilgrim's hat, jug of cider, hatchet and cranberry.
