Hi-Ways to Health

TURKEY LEFTOVERS
Turkey leftovers are undoubtedly the most sought-after leftovers that there are in the range of meal planning. Who doesn't love to make a midnight snack of a few tasty slices of white meat from the breast of the noble bird?
The homemaker has a slightly different attitude about turkey leftovers, however. If she can serve three or four good meals built around turkey leftovers, she is not only feeding her family well, but is making the purchase of a turkey pay its way on the family budget. Some families do get tired of eating cold turkey four nights in a row, and then Mom has to plan ways of serving the leftover turkey in an appetizing way. There are a number of delicious dishes using leftover turkey, many of which use a simple cream sauce base. Individual Turkey Pies and Turkey Puffs are two such dishes, both tasty and easy to make—and you had better plan for seconds—they are that good!

Salt and pepper

1/2 cup grated cheese
Pastry
Cranberry sauce
Combine turkey, potatoes, carrots and onion. Add cheese and cream sauce. Season to taste. Place in individual baking dishes. Roll out pastry, cut pastry slightly larger than baking dishes. Place on top of turkey mixture to bake. Cut slits in pastry. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 F, until pastry is nicely browned, and filling begins to bubble. Serve hot with cranberry sauce.
Turkey Puffs
1 cup enriched flour
1/2 tsp salt
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 Tbsp melted shortening
Turkey filling
Sift together flour and salt. Beat eggs and milk. Add to flour mixture. Beat smooth batter. Add shortening. Beat 3 minutes. Fill greased muffin cups or popover pans 2/3 full. Bake in hot oven, 450 degrees, 25 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue baking 15 minutes. While hot, make a cut in side of each puff and fill with Turkey Filling. Makes 6 puffs.

Individual Turkey Pies

1 1/2 cups cooked chopped turkey
1 1/2 cups cooked diced potato
1/2 cup cooked diced carrots or celery
2 Tbsp minced onion
1 1/2 cups medium cream sauce
That beard on Dutch Miller's chin doesn't mean that he's getting ready to play Santa Claus. He's simply paying off the election bet he lost to Cappy Swanson.
And while some folks allow it's all a lot of nonsense—like the wheelbarrow ride that Cappy had to give Dutch after last election day—from where I sit, it's a mighty wholesome aftermath to a difference of opinion.
Because good Americans all take their politics and voting mighty seriously. But when the issue's settled, and the die is cast, they accept the verdict in a spirit of good humor.
And that's as it should be when it comes to any difference of opinion. Some folks vote for beer as their favorite beverage—others vote for cider. In fact, we all have differences of taste in almost everything! But that doesn't mean that we can't live together in a spirit of good fellowship.

Guests at the Charles Ruggles home for Thanksgiving were Mr. Ruggles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ruggles of Wasco, and Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Sayers of Moro, friends of long standing. The elder Ruggles returned home Friday evening and the Sayers remained for a longer visit.
