

TIME TO SAVE ELECTRICITY!

(4:30 to 6:30 every workday afternoon)

Protect your own electric service... keep industries going. Please save electricity between 4:30 and 6:30 p.m. when all power systems are overloaded. It gets dark earlier on winter afternoons, and lights are turned on everywhere... while stores, offices and factories are still operating. The situation is serious. The Northwest has been growing faster than big new power plants can be built. Every little bit helps. Bake in your electric range before 4:30... turn off lights and appliances not actually in use... shut off electric heaters during the critical hours... wash dishes and take baths after 6:30.

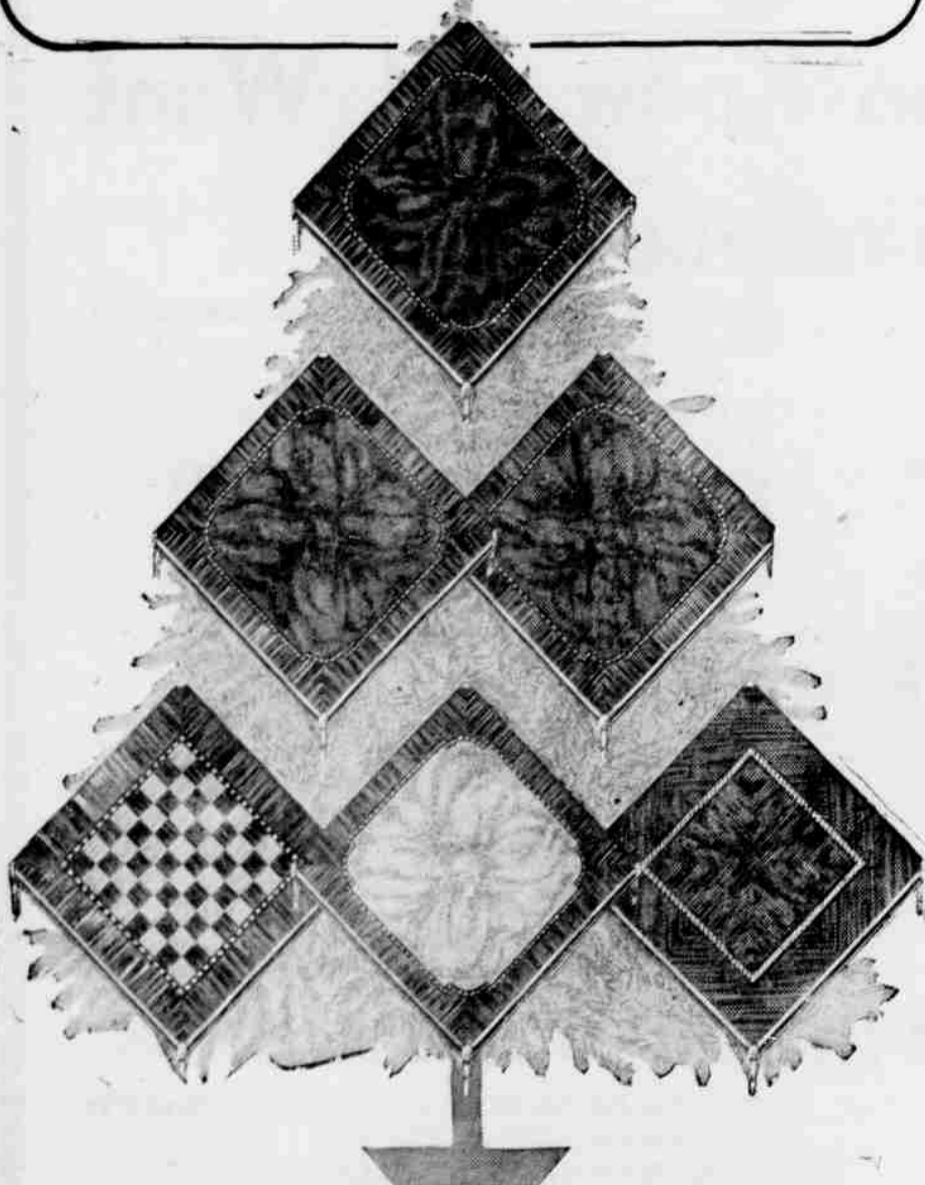

To protect your electric service, to keep jobs going, please save electricity during the critical hours, 4:30 to 6:30, every workday afternoon.

opment, allowing better penetration with smaller amounts of spray and dip materials. Both Mote and Every state that dipping is effective and satisfactory where large herds are handled, making vat building practical. In smaller herds, however, they say that spraying is most frequently used. In both spraying and dipping complete coverage of the animal's body is fundamental to rid it of lice. One treatment will generally give control. Spraying will require about two gallons of solution for each animal. Power sprayers must produce a pressure of about 400 pounds per square inch for best results, the entomologists declare. A number 5 disc on a single spray gun is best with that type of equipment. Where multiple nozzle heads are used, they recommend number 3 and 4 discs. DDT and rotenone are the two insecticides being recommended for cattle lice control. The entomologists recommend that farmers and ranchers consult their local county extension agent for spray and dipping formulas. Although it is effective, dusting is only recommended on herds where a few head are to be treated. About six to eight ounces of dust will be required for each animal. Cattlemen who expect to con-rol both lice and grubs with a single application are advised that DDT will not control grubs. Rotenone is effective for both lice and grubs, however. Mr. and Mrs. Emery Coxen came up from The Dalles last Thursday to visit relatives and friends. Emery had business elsewhere this week and Mrs. Coxen stayed on for a week. She is helping at Norah's shop while here. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vaughn left Sunday for Portland for a short business trip. Try a G-T Want Ad for results.
