Hidden tank farm to keep 50,000 homes warm

Deep in the firs near Puget Sound one of the largest heating oil tank farms in the West is being built... and motorists passing by on the highway will never know it exists.

A large ring of trees has been left standing around the tanks to preserve the scenic beauty of the area; the farm itself will store 28,896,000 gallons of oil... enough to heat 50,000 homes all winter long.

Actually, the six tanks are not needed under normal weather and shipping conditions. They're being built at a cost of more than $1,000,000 to make certain there will be enough oil on hand to meet any emergency spell of unusually bad weather...to make certain the homes of the people we serve always will be warm. Similar expenditures are being made constantly in the important job of serving the West well.

LET'S BUILD OREGON TOGETHER!

We have everything in Oregon...including the human abilities and the human energies...to keep our state forging ahead to greater and greater goals!

No group, no organization, no business institution can do it alone. We in the First National Group recognize that building a greater Oregon demands building individual prosperity...for every family, every farm, every business.

The First National Bank of Portland and all our affiliated banks are embarking on a program to help build Oregon by showing how constructive banking services can help the individual toward greater financial success. All of our 60 banking offices are pledged to this effort. No matter how large or how small the banking transaction, we are aware of its importance to the customer, and it is our established aim to render equally helpful and courteous service to all alike.

As a start in this program I am asking every member of our staff throughout the state to tell you about our services and show how useful they can be to you. I urge your active interest in this program. Call at our nearest banking office and tell us how we can best serve you and your community. Let's build Oregon together!
