Standard instrument pattern is carefully explained to Naval Aviation Cadets by their instructor in a pre-flight briefing at Pensacola, Florida. Pensacola Naval Air Station, the "Annapolis of the Air," is the focus of the recently reactivated Naval Aviation Cadet training program, which is open to healthy, single young men between 18 and 25, with at least two years of college. Upon graduation they are commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve, or second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve, are awarded their wings and assigned to two years' active duty. French Reviews the Legislature

By Giles L. French
The senate's version of how to change the tax system was revealed late last week and passed by the members of that body with small debate and smaller understanding. Last there be undue criticism of the senators let us hasten to say that understanding the revised House bills 5 and 24 is a job requiring some long days or a well prepared and lightning mind. Actually the bills divert the income and excise tax funds to the general fund for legislative appropriation, but do so in language so involved that sponsors are able to say with some show of truth that the bills preserve the tax-offset provision.

Unless HJR 9 is also passed the property tax payer will suffer irreparable damage from the hands of the senate taxation committee. What members of that group expect to do about HJR 9 is not being told and discussions about it are couched in terms as indeterminate as are the bills on the other parts of the tax program.

Briefly the senate has divided income and excise funds both past and present, has spent income tax funds first, even though there is much less legality and normality about spending them at all, has diverted money unnecessarily, has approved two measures more difficult to understand than any other part of Oregon tax law, which has been often attacked as too hard to understand.

The senate has missed an opportunity to take a step toward simplification and has, in fact, backed up several steps. Perhaps, and probably, it will be passed by the house as it was by the senate. Not because it is good or because it is understood, but because the members are tired and anxious to get home, because they will not read it, because few would understand it if they did. Thus it is proven that it is often as valuable to think last in a legislative session as to think best.

The bill to change the method of dividing highway moneys to the counties had another hard week but did some out of the highway committee which is more than any similar bill has ever done. As of now it would give Multnomah county 3/4 of its regular share and divide the difference which would give some $400,000 to other counties. The terms of division for cities gives Portland 2/3 of its share. A half dozen methods of dividing the funds were figured out but none could get enough votes to get out of committee.

This isn't much, and it is a long way from a final enactment yet, but it is a start.

The senate approved the bill giving clubs the right to keep and sell hard liquor (the master locker plan) with some other provisions which lighten the Knox law somewhat, but not so extensively as at first expected.

The senate has passed out HB 193, the bill for an additional $30 per month for census children for schools. The money would be paid on a strict TDM (total days membership) basis which provides another handicap to eastern Oregon. It may pass the senate if teachers are able to obtain pledges as they did in the house and then it will have to go to the people.

Adjournment now seems ten days away, perhaps the night before Easter or thereafter. The senate still has unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation, game, highways, final on education and taxation and some other smaller stuff. The house has the bonus, now not nearly so popular as when first debated. When means of financing is added to it it isn't so popular which is like the old conservative policy of reading the right side of the menu first.

What is handicapping the senate is the eternal and interminable talking of Senators Carson of Marion and Neuberger of Multnomah who have spent half of the entire senate's debate time and show no sign of slackening their gab. Neither is a good talker, neither does either have anything of moment to contribute, but each is enamored with the sound of his own voice and impressed with the jewel-like quality of their ideas.

(From last week)
The boys are getting tired and weary of it all. Citizens can tell that when the senate and house members begin calling names and comparing records. Last Saturday, for instance, a senator with a reputation for words surpassing his reputation for work berated the house as noisy and the speaker as inefficient. Well, some people got that way when the majority refuse to pass their bills and an ability to take it helps any legislator. If he pro-

4-H CLUB NEWS

We had our 2nd sewing club meeting at the home of Patsy and Janet Wright. We named our club the "Busy Stitches" club.

The new additions are three purebred Shorthorn cows and calves purchased from a prominent southern breeder at Odessa, Wash. With this beef breeding stock now added to the original stock, the boys now have a quality small herd started.

Four-H projects now carried by the boys consist of the beef breeding herd mentioned above, fat beef, fat and purebred breeding sheep. With this good start in the quality livestock business, the boys will be well along with sizeable herds of both sheep and beef when they are old enough to begin farming on their own.

These are examples of what 4-H club work is doing for our farm boys and girls, beside the youth training they are getting that is so valuable.

Everything does not always go so well for 4-H members. Dean Graves, member of the Sandhol-present apportionment and give the difference to counties on the same basis as now, which is the number of cars registered. That would divide about $700,000 more than now. Inasmuch as all big truck companies register their vehicles in Portland some change is needed.

As Oregon's cities get bigger and bigger and rural areas decline in population it is harder and harder to adjust such things—and more necessary that it be done.

The senate bill for adjustment of county officials' salaries has been showing some life but is not expected to get to moving before the final gavel.

The racing commission with its two elements, horses and dogs, held the spotlight last week with wrangling and bickering over who should get the most days racing. As finally adjusted the take will be left at 12 1/2 per cent and the days racing will be cut to 100. Some small adjustment will give the state a little more money, but not enough. Had not the speaker ruled that a bill repealing the whole business could not be considered legislators would probably have repealed the bill permitting racing entirely. It attracts too many of the wrong kind of people.

The distribution of funds will now be in another bill. There have been efforts to take out everyone including the Pacific exposition and the county fairs but the committee hasn't gotten around to talking about that feature yet.

A Quiet Evening at Home

Sally Palmer is a new member of our club. Our next club meeting will be at her home Saturday, April 23, at 2 o'clock—Reporter, Janet Wright.

The "Future Knitters" met Monday at the home of Mrs. W. O. Dix where Selma Orwick demonstrated "basting on" of stitches and Eleanor Rice demonstrated "hiding off." Joan Bothwell led the singing while the girls knitted.

Mike Stalcup, young 4-H club member of Boardman, is proud of a newly purchased Spotted Poland China herd boar. The registered boar was purchased from the Greenfield Hereford ranch, Bakersfield, Cal., and carries some of the best bloodlines of the Spotted breed. Also, newly arrived at the Stalcup farm are 17 little purebred Spotted Poland China pigs from his two registered sows. Mike is kept quite busy these days checking on the health of his new pigs besides feeding and caring for his fat and breeding beef, rabbit, and fat pig projects.

Ronald and Duane Baker, members of the Ione Livestock club, have recently added some more purebred breeding stock to their many 4-H projects already carried.

County Committee Approves Plans

Final detailed plans were approved Monday afternoon for their homemakers' festival to be held April 30 at the Rhea Creek Grange hall. Features of the day include the style review at 11:15, of the 61 dresses made in cotton dress workshop conducted by community project leaders; noon luncheon served by Rhea Creek Grange home economics group; and the talk, "The One Family School" at 2:00, by Mrs. Buena Mockmoo of Corvallis. All homemakers are invited to attend any or all of the program. Children high school girls and four lone will be cared for by four Heppner high school girls. Tickets for the luncheon may be secured from extension unit members or from the county agent's office. Children will be served at half price.

Genevieve Cox who is attending school at St. Joseph's academy in Pendleton this year, spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Cox.
