Answering promptly—giving others a full minute to answer her call—are first on Janie's list of aids to service.

How Janie helps herself to better service

1. "Allowing a little time between calls," says Janie, "gives others a chance to call me . . . and it's a nice party-line courtesy, too." So when she's getting the gang together for a picnic, or for any reason needs to make calls in a row, she waits several minutes between each one. "It's simple to make friends with others on our line. I just use the telephone the way I like them to."

2. Looking up numbers, Janie knows, is really important. "So easy to get them mixed up," she explains. "Why, I was just sure Babs' number was 8145 . . . but when I called her I got the drug store. Turned out her number was 8415. So unless I'm really sure of a number, I'm going to look it up in the telephone book." That's a good tip for all of us—teen-agers and grown-ups.

3. Getting the most from the telephone—and helping others get better service—depends in part on every telephone user. Facilities have doubled in the West in ten years. Your telephone is today one of your most valuable servants . . . saving time, saving steps. And it still does its job for just a few pennies a call.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

"Private Industry's Taxpaying Dollars are the Key to Healthy Northwest Progress."

FRANK LOGGAN
President, Bond Chamber of Commerce

NEW POWER LINES are being built all over the Pacific Northwest. Nearly all are tied into the Northwest Power Pool. Thus each part of this growing region shares the kilowatts produced by more than 300 power plants.

Pacific Power & Light Company has spent more than $25,000,000 on new construction since V-J day. These are taxpaying, job-making dollars—development dollars—invested here in the great Northwest to help meet your electrical needs.

The power requirements of a fast-growing region demand a steady flow of these development dollars into the Pacific Northwest. That is why all of us want investors to look to this region as a land of opportunity, and of fair reward.

The investor whose dollars help extend and improve your low-cost electric service, while sharing your tax burden, is truly a Partner in Progress!
