

Another Source of Income in Morrow County . . .

Although not holding the place of prominence it once occupied, the sheep industry still figures quite extensively in the income of the county. Before so much of the grazing land was broken up for grain raising, Morrow county was one of the important wool producing sections of the Northwest and time was when Heppner boasted of being the biggest prime wool shipping point in the aforementioned territory. The county used to range somewhere in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million sheep, but the coming of the gas age, with big tractors replacing the horse in the field, coupled with low prices for mutton and wool, many of the ranchers turned their attention to the raising of wheat and one by one the big flocks were disposed of. If the industry again becomes prominent it will be through small flocks on the many ranches, but the tendency to run cattle precludes a general return to the wool industry.

Timber Is An Important Crop in Morrow County—It Is Harvested, Too . . .

The Blue Mountains, spanning the southern portion of Morrow county, are the scene of much activity these days, what with the Heppner Lumber company and the Kinzua Pine Mills company carrying on extensive cutting and milling operations. The Heppner Lumber company has a modern plant a short distance north of Heppner, of which the accompanying picture shows the cutting plant and the dry kiln. Since the picture was taken a long drying shed has been built to the north of the dry kiln. North of the sawmill is the planer shed and manufacturing plant. Across the highway from the mill buildings are the machine shed and pile yard. The harvesting of the timber crop means jobs for a good many people and the Heppner plant has become one of the big industrial operations of the county.

A Typical Stand of Pine Timber in the Blue Mountains of Morrow County

Ponderosa pine, spruce and fir predominate in the timbered area of the county, with the pine drawing the greater part of attention from the timber operators. At present there is strong competition facing the sawmill men from a source that is causing them and the U. S. Forest Service considerable worry. An infestation of the spruce budworm and the sawfly throughout the Blue Mountain area is a cause of grave concern and a campaign is being formulated to combat these pests which have already marked large tracts. Much of the timber thus affected may be salvaged through increased cutting by plants operating in the region, but the effect this will have upon the future supply of saw timber is a matter of concern to the timbermen and the forest service.

addresses, nothing much has been planned before Saturday morning. Beginning at 7 a. m. Saturday, the Wranglers, Morrow county riding club, will serve breakfast to the visitors at the Legion hall. Serving will continue until 9. The Wranglers have termed it a "harvesters' breakfast," which is probably correct in light of the menu which includes ham and eggs, potatoes, biscuits and coffee.

Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 there will be a cocktail party at the Legion hall. This will be followed by the banquet which will be served at 7 o'clock at the gymnasium by the Soroptimist Club of Heppner.

Since it has been impossible to get a line on the possible attendance, the room committee is urging that more rooms be made available. The hotel is full to overflowing and up to noon Wednesday residential accommodations had been signed up to take care of about 70 visitors. By Friday evening it is likely that many more rooms will be needed. Persons having rooms that can be used should contact the information desk at the hotel at once.

NEW CLUB ORGANIZED

With the able assistance of Miss Wilson, a knitting club was organized Nov. 22 at the home of Mrs. Cornett Green with Mrs. M. R. Wightman and Mrs. Green as club leaders.

The members are Kay Valentine, Peggy Wightman, Clarice Hastings, Mary Ruth Green, Donna Lovgren, Joan Keithley, Nancy Ball, Jean Marie Graham, Janet Wightman and Janice Beamer.

Officers were elected with Clarice Hastings president; Kay Valentine, vice president; Mary Ruth Green, secretary; Nancy Ball song leader and Janice Beamer, reporter.

It was decided meetings were to be held each Thursday from 4 to 5 o'clock. Members were told what equipment and materials to bring to the next meeting, also suggestions for a name.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments of cookies and milk were served.

Janice Beamer.
