Pacific Power & Light Company has spent more than $25,000,000 on new construction since V-J day. These are taxpaying, job-making dollars—development dollars—invested here in the great Northwest to help meet your electrical needs.

The power requirements of a fast-growing region demand a steady flow of these development dollars into the Pacific Northwest. That is why all of us want investors to look at this region as a land of opportunity, and of fair reward.

The investor whose dollars help extend and improve your low-cost electric service, while sharing your tax burden, is truly a Partner in Progress!

Progress in improving livestock is slow at best when selection of animals is made on appearance alone. Cadmus points out, because many factors which affect productivity—such as fertility—cannot be evaluated by the eye alone.

"It has been demonstrated," he says, "that it takes 20 to 30 times as long for improvement in livestock by selection alone as compared to selection on appearance coupled with production records."

Developing a system of production records will help eliminate some of the guess work in ram and ewe selection and will give the breeder who has records a distinct advantage in the sale of his stock. Cadmus explains.

The record system outlined in the publication calls for individual cards to be maintained on both ewes and rams. Cards are pictured in the publication along with the explanation on how they should be filled out and what to look for on the record cards in selecting animals for the flock.
