News from C. A. Office

TILLAMOOK PREPARED TO DELIVER CLAMS
Word has just been received from the Tillamook Dairy Herd Improvement association that they are now able to fill orders as received for Guernsey and Jersey heifer calves. Farmers in Morrow county who need milk cow replacements can do well to start raising such replacements as calves from high-producing herds. The annual report of the Tillamook association showed that over 4000 cows on test averaged 375 pounds butterfat per cow. This is somewhere over twice the average production for all cows in the state. Calves are selling for $24.50 FOB Tillamook. Check or cash must accompany orders. Further particulars can be obtained at this office.

CATTLE BOTHERED WITH CALCIUM DEFICIENCY
Many livestockmen are having trouble these days with a calcium deficiency, or Acetonemia, in cattle. Milk cows are most commonly affected but all types seem to be subject. This deficiency is caused by turning cattle out on green wheat and not providing any dry roughage to go with this succulent feed. Green wheat, as well as all green grasses at this time of the year, while being very palatable, do not contain nutrients needed for the average animal. This is especially true if cattle came through the winter in poor condition. For prevention of acetonemia roughage should be provided for livestock until pastures have attained a good growth. By all means, cattle should not be required to live entirely off of green wheat. At the sign of staggering, or cows that cannot get up from weakness, calcium gluconate should be given intravenously. Whenever a herd has an outbreak, it is well to provide dry roughage until all danger is past.
