The American Way TIME TO CLEAN HOUSE

By George Peck Toward the end of the 19th Century a most deplorable condition had developed in this country. Certain powerful capitalists, comprising but a small minority of the nation's businessmen, were operating their corporations solely for their own greedy gain, against the best interests of the American people as a whole.

They oppressed workers by using force; they forced smaller competitors out of business; they bought votes with the money entrusted to them by investors; they shamelessly corrupted state legislatures; and even wrought their evil influence on the Federal Congress.

As a remedy for these evils, the Socialists proposed the abolition of private property; the production-for-use, instead of profit. Fortunately, there were in this country citizens who knew the fallacy of Socialism, who realized that concentrating all wealth in the hands of a few government bureaucrats would be jumping from the frying pan into the fire, would merely intensify the abuses.

So these astute Liberals chose to correct the abuses which had crept into our Capitalistic System, rather than destroy it. Pressure was brought upon the Federal and State Governments to step in as umpires (not players) with remedial legislation. Enactment of the Sherman and Clayton Anti-Trust Laws broke up oppressive business monopolies. Prohibition of political campaign contributions by corporations, and mandatory publication of all corporation receipts and expenditures brought to an end the secret, illegitimate use of corporate funds. The unionization of labor gave employees collective strength to demand and obtain better wages and working conditions.

Now, we find we have erected two monsters far more oppressive than were the few capitalists of half a century ago—BIG LABORISM and BIG CENTRALIZED GOVERNMENT.

Again, we find a few ambitious, in some cases, unscrupulous men, operating against the best interests of the people, and bringing discredit to a great humanitarian movement. I refer, of course, to certain labor leaders.
