To begin with, man is placed here on earth with a somewhat higher status than that of a mere animal; he is given free-dom of choice. God never forced man to accept God. The thing distinguishing him from the ani-mal, that makes him a little bit lower than angels, and qualifies him to become the Son of God, is the fact that he is given freedom to choose for himself. He may to choose for himself. He may choose to worship. He may choose not to worship. And which-ever he does, he accepts the con-sequences of the choice that he makes.
