J. O. Turner Heads Freedom Crusade Movement in County J. O. Turner has accepted Morrow county chairmanship of the Crusade for Freedom organization, according to F. N. Belgrano, Jr., state chairman. Belgrano expressed gratification that Turner has agreed to direct Morrow county's participation in the crusade campaign, which he said is primarily a mass movement intended to create and transmit effective anti-communist and pro-freedom intelligence, by radio broadcasts and other agencies, to the people of the prisoner countries behind the iron curtain and to the people of other countries under communist pressure. The campaign will be officially launched on Labor day, September 4, Belgranosaid by a nation-wide radio address by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. For some six weeks thereafter organized effort will be made to enroll the names of millions of Americans on "Freedom Scrolls" to be circulated throughout the country, and finally to be permanently enshrined in the base of a huge "Freedom Bell" in Berlin. General Lucius D. Clay, leader of the Berlin Airlift before his retirement to civil life, is national chairman of the Crusade for Freedom. Robert Ordway of Hood River is a new employe at the First National Bank of Portland Heppner branch, succeeding Dean Wager who left Tuesday evening for Portland. Ordway worked in Lakeview at the time Merle Beckett was manager of the branch bank there. JoJean Dix left today to join her mother in Seattle where she will attend school again. Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Dix took her and will have a short vacation before returning.
