THE STRANGE FLIGHT OF MR. MORSE

SHERMAN COUNTY JOURNAL
Shed a tear, friend, for Senator Wane Morse, a man whose troubles must seem burdensome, whose chickens in coming home to roost must have brought wrinkles to the horseman's brow and additional snow to the gray-ing locks.

Senator Morse, be it known, has long cherished an ambition to be a member of the foreign affairs committee of the senate. He argues that the far west and Pacific coast needs a representative on that committee, a statement with which all Oregonians can concur.

The changed numbers of Republicans and Democrats in the senate since election has made a change in the relative numbers of men on the committee from each party. Instead of having eight the Democrats will have seven leaving six to the Republicans instead of five. At last there is room for Senator Morse and he has long awaited an opportunity to fill it.

However, the results of the election are interpreted as a victory for the segment of the party that has opposed the administration foreign policy (sic) and for the Republicans who stood staunchly for the Taft-Hartley law. Senator Morse has not been a member of that group. He inveighed stoutly against isolationists during the campaign without letting his hearers in on the secret of what they were. He supports the administration in foreign affairs. He made a speech to the AFL in which he opposed the Taft-Hartley act in uncompromising terms.

Forsyth, say the party leaders, this man's appointment to the foreign affairs committee would be to repudiate the mandate of the people or something like that. Mr. Morse has gone his blithe and independent way for six years stabbing friend and foe with his votes and his voice. He has fought against the (for some) restraining ties of party. Now when there is work to do the leaders may hitch up some better broke steed and let Morse go on with his pitching in the big pasture, his kicking at the corral bars.

We wonder what the senator is going to do. Will he persist in letting the tickle of the tugs excite him to kicking and bucking? Will he resign himself to joining the team and following the furrow?

Mrs. Blanche Brown left Wednesday morning for Portland where she will visit for a few weeks.

Christmas Mailing Lagging Here, P. M. Driscoll Announces

Unless business is considerably less in volume than last year it is estimated that local patrons will present some 60,000 letters and Christmas cards, and approximately 500 sacks of parcel post for dispatch in the next 12 days, says Postmaster J. H. Driscoll. With limited facilities and personnel, this becomes a major chore at the local Post Office when the volume of mail coming to town exceeds the above figures at least three times over.

Patrons are urged to begin immediately with their dispatch of Christmas mail. It would be appreciated if mailers would present their Christmas cards bearing different denomination of stamps in separate bundles with the stamps all in the same corner.

The rate on unsealed Christmas cards for out of town delivery is 2 cents each, and applies on mail delivered to all local patrons served by Star Route carrier. Cards for city delivery may be mailed at the rate of one cent each, if sealed and presented as first class mail. No writing is permitted on an UNSEALED Christmas card excepting the name of the sender. Writing a message of any kind, merely instructions, or similar information subjects any mail to the first class rate.

The Post Office will be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday, Dec. 16 and Dec. 23, but not on Dec. 9.

MANY DRIVERS LOSE LICENSES BECAUSE OF INTOXICATION COUNTS

Convictions for driving while intoxicated cost the operator's licenses of 1,942 Oregon drivers during the first 10 months of the year, an increase of 18 percent over convictions for this offense during the same period in 1949, Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry reported today.

Oregon law requires courts to report convictions for traffic offenses to the department of state and makes revocation of the of-

Churches Sponsoring Program at School

Churches of the city are sponsoring a special program at the assembly room of the high school Monday evening under auspices of the Youth for Christ movement. This is a national organization which provides programs and for this occasion there will be the showing of a talking movie, "God of Creation."

A cordial invitation has been extended to the public to attend this program. It will be in the high school assembly room, not in the gymnasium.

December, always a month of peak traffic danger, may force the statewide toll to its highest point since 1947, Newbry said, adding that driving combined with drinking is one of the gravest hazards of the season.
