Sheep Loaded Out Of Heppner Yards For Summer Range

21 Cars Bound For North Fork and Montana Pastures

Twenty-one carloads of sheep were loaded out of the Heppner yards Wednesday evening when the Krebs Bros. and Fred Hoskins bands were started on their way to summer pasture. Thirteen cars were required for the Krebs shipment and eight cars for Hoskins.

The Krebs brothers range their sheep in Montana and their train was destined for Spotted Robe, in the Glacier National Park area. Summer headquarters will be at Browning where the Krebs' have retained range for many years. The Hoskins summer range is on the North Fork of the Umatilla river above Duncan station, the unloading point.

While distance makes it neces sary for the Krebs Bros. to ship by rail, Hoskins has followed the practice of trailing his sheep to has become more settled up and traffic along the routes more difficult, it is less expensive to ship by rail. The sheep are brought to the railhead one day and are Of Being Without ready to go onto the summer pasture the next day. That goes for Federal Insurance Hoskins but not for the other op erators. Their shipment goes Union Pacific to Spokane and then is shunted over to the Great Northern for the Montana run.

Gunderson, daughter of Eddie Gunderson of Happner and Mrs. Francis Treedson of Hermiston, plans to go to college but is not sure which school it will be.

She plans to become a teacher. Dr. Vergil S. Fogdall of Lewis and Clark college, Portland, urged the graduates to make the most of the knowledge acquired in prep school and to go on to greater accomplishments. The trend of his talk was toward a practical application of the knowdge acquired in school and to those who go on to college to choose courses they will be interested in and most likely to bring them success. He used several personal examples to illustrate his points and his humorous stories were not lacking in value in relation to his theme, 'Keep Your Lantern Lit."
