Elks Picnic Draws Large Attendance

The number of Elks patrons swelled to a number of at least 200 gathered at the Willamette center gardens for the annual picnic this past Saturday. For the annual trek of the Elks organization, hyper-inflated balloons were sent up into the air, and in the intersection of Thirtieth and Market streets, numerous flags and banners of various organizations were on display. The Elks also held a parade, with the oldest of the Elks organizations, the B.N., leading the parade, followed by a float from the Elks of Portland, with the Portland Police Department and the Portland Fire Department bringing up the rear. The Elks also served a picnic lunch to the smokers and non-smokers, with many coming and going throughout the day.
