Ruby red cherries are happily employed as the colorful accent to luscious quick coffee cake squares. They're served at breakfast with bacon and eggs.

Those who take time for a good breakfast often say that they enjoy it more than any meal of the day. It's sound planning from a nutritional point of view, too. Like any engine the body needs refueling before work is demanded of it. Food experts say breakfast should supply from a fourth to a third of daily food needs.

Enriched breads are always included as a "starter" for the day because they provide food energy, protein for body-building, food iron and essential B-vitamins. With the great variety of plain breads, rolls and coffee cakes offered at bakeries today, breakfast can be interesting, colorful and well-balanced the year around.

For example, quick coffee cakes can be changed to suit the season. Fluffy coffee cake squares are delicious flavored with fresh peach slices or raspberries for summer glamor. Often, you'll use spoonfuls of your favorite jam for an easy, colorful topping. In the fall you'll like to use drained canned cherries or pineapple chunks. The result in any case is a breakfast treat, and a happy "prescription" for vitamins and minerals.

Complete the breakfast menu with glasses of chilled fruit juice and the sunny-side eggs your man likes, and he'll give you a reputation as a wonderful cook.

CHERRY OR RASPBERRY TEA SQUARES

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted shortening
- 1 cup drained cherries or raspberries or 1 cup fruit jam
- Confectioners' Sugar Icing

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. To beaten egg add milk and melted shortening. Mix well. Add egg mixture to flour mixture, mixing only enough to moisten flour. Spread in greased 7 x 11 inch pan. With knife handle or teaspoon make hollows in dough 1 1/2 inches apart. Fill hollows with cherries, raspberries, or fruit jam. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes. When cool, drizzle with Confectioners' Sugar Icing. Makes 1 tea cake, 7 x 11 inches.

Fireguards Advocated For Rural Protection

Be prepared for grass or grain fires.

This timely reminder is from Charles R. Ross Oregon state college extension forestry specialist, who says that about half of the state's families live in rural areas where a few extra fire precautions must be considered.

Grass fires are a threat this season, he warns, and since they spread rapidly it is almost a must to take advance precautions.

Ross suggests removal of dead grass and weeds from a strip at least 10 feet wide around all farm buildings. Disked or plowed fireguards are recommended for grainfields.

At harvest time, fire prevention measures are simple, yet too important to overlook. Spontaneous combustion is a threat with wet or uncured hay. The danger signs are steam and excessive condensation in the mow.

Many barns, the specialist adds catch fire from running tractors, cars and other machinery. If motor capable of combustion or friction sparks are used in a barn, have a fire-protected room for them.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

July 21, 1921
 Robert Buschke underwent an operation on Sunday from which he is now rapidly recovering, and which it is hoped will be the means of helping his general health.

Chris Brown is busy running the header on his place about five miles west of Heppner. He will thresh later. His neighbor, Henry Happold, is now threshing on his place, but has not got along far enough to give an accurate estimate on his yield. Grain in that vicinity promises to go around thirty bushel.

The families of W. W. Smead, H. D. Mikesell, and W. O. Bayless enjoyed a visit the past week from Mrs. Etta Shippey and daughter Florence of Lyle, Washington. Mrs. Shippey, who is a sister of Mrs. Della Corson of Ione is well known in Morrow county, having formerly engaged in school teaching in various districts here. She will be remembered by old friends as Miss Etta Reed.

Mrs. T. J. Humphreys and daughters, Misses Leta and Evelyn, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Huston and Miss Helen Rood, arrived from the Willamette Valley on Saturday last. Miss Rood is a niece of Mrs. Hum-
