GINGER ALE IMPROVES YOUR PUNCH

When is punch time? Almost any time when there's a crowd to be served. It's the most convenient way to serve drinks in quantity in summer. A bowl of sparkling punch is an invitation to your guests to help themselves while you relax, instead of tripping back and forth to the kitchen to refill glasses. To be good, a punch must have distinct flavor, a zippy tang, and it must be cold. Fruit juices for flavor, pale dry ginger ale for tang and plenty of ice for proper chilling—that's your basic punch recipe. You probably have your own favorite combination of fruit juices for a punch. Just try adding ginger ale and you will find the flavor greatly improved. To prevent dilution and to keep excellent flavor down to the last glassful, it's a good trick to freeze ginger ale ice cubes for your punch. Here is a quickly made, delicious punch.

GOLD COAST PUNCH

- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 2 cans quick-frozen concentrated orange juice
- 1/4 cup marashino cherry juice
- 2 large bottles pale dry ginger ale

Combine lemon juice, pineapple juice and concentrated orange juice; mix well. Pour over ice in punch bowl. Fill bowl with ice cold pale dry ginger ale. Garnish with marashino cherries and orange slices. Yield: approximately 25 punch cup servings.
