

4-H CLUB NEWS

The past month has been a busy one of 4-H club organization by leaders. One of the first "Musts" in getting underway is to select the project the club member will carry. Agricultural club members have been selecting livestock to feed, fit and care for during the club year. Selecting feeder steers to fatten out this year the following members have now on feed: Duane Baker, two shorthorns; Jimmy Hayes, one shorthorn; R. B. Ferguson Ranch; Johnny Brosnan, one shorthorn, own herd; Rieta Graves, two shorthorns, Deane Graves, five shorthorns, John Graves Ranch; Leland McKinney one shorthorn, Malcolm McKinney, one shorthorn, Oscar Ruggles Ranch; Leland McKinney, one hereford, Malcolm McKinney one hereford, Charles Carlson Ranch; Ned Clark, one hereford, Ray Wright Ranch; Marilyn Monagle, one hereford, Jack Monagle, one hereford, Ralph Justus Ranch; Shirley Peck, one hereford, Dick Ekstrom, one hereford, Wm. Smethurst Ranch; Dick Ekstrom, two herefords, Delbert Emert Ranch; Allen Hughes, one hereford, W. E. Hughes Ranch; and George Hermann, one angus, Robert Smith Ranch.

Taking a spurt this year, dairy is a popular project now with eleven members enrolled. While in the past Boardmann and Irrigon club members were leaders in the project, its popularity has shifted to the Heppner area this year. Enrolled in dairy projects are Albert Seeber, Larry Russell, Sharon Russell, Lorelie Hamilton and Maxine Sicard of Boardman; Carole Anne Anderson, Ned Clark, Sally Palmer, Patricia Peck, Janet Wright and Patsy Wright of Heppner.

All dairy club members from Heppner have ordered Jersey and Guernsey heifer calves from the Tillamook Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Judy Thompson, Heppner, a member of the South Heppner Livestock Club has recently purchased eleven Cheviot ewe lambs from Canada. These will be used in a market lamb project, breeding to a Southdown ram. Eddie Brosnan, Heppner, last fall purchased three registered Rambou-

Sportsmanlike DRIVING

BE A "GROWN-UP" DRIVER

The man you are shows in your car! Oh, not in the size or make of your car—but in how you drive it.

Good drivers are mature and responsible, says the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving." They keep things under control. They control both themselves and their cars.

Egotists show up badly in traffic. They ignore the rights of others. They are self-centered and rude. "Show-off" drivers look ridiculous behind the wheel. They drive any old way that gets attention—even if it endangers life.

Over-emotional drivers show up like man-sized babies. They "blow up" in emergencies. They are irritated over trifles. "Rationalizers" lack the courage to face facts. They never admit their own driving faults. Put a "thwarted" man behind a wheel, and watch him try to make up for all the frustrations of his life. Hungry for a little power, he is dangerous in a car. How do you "stack up" behind the wheel? Your driving shows up your personality.

illet ewes, for his start in building up a herd of this breed sheep. Russell Dolven, Lexington, has two Southdown ewes and a ram purchased from a Washington breeder that promises to give him an excellent start in market lambs of this excellent breed.

Newest Reorganized 4-H Club is the Sandhollow-Butter creek Livestock Club which held its reorganization meeting last Sunday at the Eb Hughes ranch.

Elected as new officers of the club were Ronald Currin, president; Deane Graves, vice-president; Allen Hughes, secretary; Rieta Graves, reporter and Tom Currin, song leader.

Other members are Marilyn and Jack Monagle, Eddie, Johnny and Joanne Brosnan, Russell Dolven and Dennis Doherty. Russell and Dennis are new members of this club.

Sheep, swine and beef projects will be carried by its members.

THE HAPPY SEW AND SEWS

By Ruth Peterson

A new sewing club was organized December 1, at the home of Carole Ann and Connie Anderson by the leader Mrs. Harold Peck. Nine children were present including Connie and Carole Ann Anderson, Nancy Harshman, Vicki Barger, Marjorie Peck, Carolyn McDaniels, Alice Peterson, Bonnie Hannan and Ruth Peterson.

Officers were elected as follows:

president, Alice Peterson; vice president, Connie Anderson; secretary, Vicki Barger; news reporter, Ruth Peterson; song leader, Carole Ann Anderson; recreation committee, Marjorie Peck, and Connie Anderson.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. N. C. Anderson. The next meeting will be at Carolyn McDaniels December 15. At this meeting members will exchange inexpensive gifts. The club will meet the second and fourth Saturdays of each month.

Word has been received by Mrs. Ernest Winchester that her father, Martin Reid, is a patient at Emanuel Hospital in Portland following a heart attack at his home in Ocean Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were in Heppner for the Thanksgiving holidays and became ill upon his return home. The Reids resided in Heppner for many years previous to their move to the coast.
