Strike One!

Well, the first big spasm of this election year is over for Oregon and practically every voter and election prognosticator (including us) has spent this week both patting himself on the back and licking his wounds. As in nearly every other election, we have yet to see any one person or paper who came up with a 100% batting average on this one—ours, we would guess, was just middling good.

We fanned out in calling the race for Congress, didn't set any record, either, in our choice for state treasurer. In the local race for state representative our selections were only half right—we failed to see the power behind Jack Steiwer. In most of the rest of the races our suggestions were pretty close to the vote. Even though we missed our share, so did both Portland papers and others, too. Maybe we should have done as did the East Oregonian—pick them afterwards.

We tried to pick the men we thought were the best fitted for the jobs. Come fall, the job has to be done all over again and probably we will suggest support for men we asked to be defeated this spring. That's one of the interesting things about an election in America... it, and the voters, are so unpredictable. Guess that's what makes one of em so interesting.

Regardless of whether our selections were perfect or not, a lot of good men were nominated by both parties which means that voters this fall, are going to have a full slate of able men from which to choose, something which heralds a healthy revival of the long-dormant Democratic party in Oregon. Too, the turnout of voters throughout the state was a good indication of a greater voter interest in politics.

The more we think about it, the more we realize that it's really a good thing that we can't all pick winners every time. It would take all the fun out of an election.

There's just one thing, though, that in a way makes us feel a little sad—not that we'd stick up for him, but he will be missed—we wonder what the Portland papers are going to use for local front page stories now that Jake Bennett has been sent to the showers?

Others Do It Too!

We noted the other day with a sort of smug pleasure that other newspapers make errors too. We didn't mean to rub it in, but this one, pulled by an Eastern Oregon weekly bears repeating.

It stated: "Mr. _____ had just decently arrived from Chicago for a visit with his nephew."

Joan bought a box of chocolates. Maud received a leaf shaped relish dish and a vase full of beautiful pansies.

The attention of our farmers is called to the announcement of the State Conservation field day to be held at the Roy Forman ranch on May 26. Mr. Forman was selected as 1951 State "Conservation Man of the Year". Farmers would find his farm of interest through conservation practices he has established. It would be helpful if those who plan to attend this field day next Monday would call this office—maybe someone would like to ride with you.

A recent check of the weed control program carried out by Morrow County last year shows results better than we had hoped. This is especially true in the control of Russian Knapweed. Where three gallons of 2,4-D in 100 gallons of water per acre was used kills up to 90% have been found. Spraying done in latter May and very early June show best results.

The county spray program for 1952 was started April 20 with most spraying to date on roads for Russian Thistle control. Some cattail spraying has been done in Boardman. Spraying for noxious weeds will start within a few days. Farmers who know of noxious perennial weeds on highway right-of-ways should report these to Wilbur Akers, County Weed Supervisor or to this office.

Last weeks cattle grading demonstration at the Frank Anderson ranch brought out about fifteen ranchers interested in this kind of work. During Friday afternoon and Saturday morning 85 head were graded. Frank should be proud of the fine herd of cattle he has built up in the past few years. Grades given the cattle by Harry Lindgren, Extension Animal Husbandman, showed that the herd was quite uniform. Six head carried grades in the A class, sixty-nine in the B class, with only seven in the C class. Of special significance was the A-Class given to a young bull raised by Mr. Anderson and now in limited use in the herd. A grades are few and far between in herds throughout the country.

With the end of school drawing near, all the students are cramming for the final hour and a half exams in every subject. The tests will be given Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday, then the report cards will be handed out on Friday.

The Freshmen went on their annual class picnic last Saturday and the Sophomores have their picnic planned for this Saturday. Both classes chose Lehmen Springs for their yearly picnic.

Heppner's tennis team played a return match with Irrigon last Thursday on the Irrigon and McNary courts. Although Heppner was defeated again, the scoring was much closer than at the last Heppner-Irrigon match.

Heppner High has received the 1951-52 "Mustangs", and everyone who has received this annual has been busy the last few days getting the autographs of classmates and teachers.

How to make good telephone service even better...

it's easy to be a good telephone neighbor, too

If yours is a party-line, it's easy to be a neighborly telephone user. Just keep these simple points in mind when you make telephone calls: When you have a series of calls to make, allow a few minutes between them • Make sure the line is clear before you call • Replace the receiver properly in its cradle after calling. These suggestions will mean still better party-line service for you, too. For if you make them a habit, you'll find that they give people a better chance to call you.

emergency calls may arise while you are using your party-line. If a telephone neighbor breaks in and explains the emergency, it's always thoughtful to hang up and complete your call later.
