

Keep Oregon Green Ass'n Plans Campaign

This year's forest fire prevention campaign has been officially launched by the Keep Oregon Green association according to Albert Wiesendanger, executive secretary of the association, who arrived here Wednesday from Keep Oregon Green headquarters in Salem.

Plans have been laid to meet a summer season which could produce as deadly dangers to Oregon's forest as last summer brought. There could easily be somewhere in the state a repetition of the fires which occurred in Coos, Lane, Douglas, Tillamook and Marion counties.

A more intensive campaign of public education will be waged this year than ever before.

Any careless individual, camper, logger, hiker, fisherman, motorist or mountaineer could start a fire as disastrous as one of these that took place last summer.

This might not happen anywhere in Oregon in 1952 if every citizen will think protection, talk protection and practice protection. Let's all Keep Oregon Green.

Wiesendanger spent Wednesday afternoon with Judge Garnet Barratt, Morrow county Keep Oregon Green chairman and District Ranger Wayne West.

HERE'S DOPE ON FISHING

Fishing information will be presented each week from reports received by Andresen's Sporting Goods and the Gazette Times.

There have been reports that some steelheads have been taken from the Deschutes. It is known, also, that the main run is due to hit the river any day.

Local streams are still producing some fish and with the water going down and clear it should be fair fishing this weekend.

Long Drink Time Is Here Again

Summer days, long and lazy, are here. These are the days when everyone wants to be out in the open as much as possible. To have leisure time requires planning ahead of time. A little forethought in marketing will save many a last minute rush when an opportunity for a day's pleasure presents itself.

An assortment of tinned and jarred foods on your pantry shelves can afford a delightful quick meal or a picnic lunch at short notice, and save many long hours of preparation. Canned or frozen fruit juices, flavorings, fresh fruits, packaged ice cream and plenty of pale dry ginger ale and sparkling water on hand, mean that you can whip up refreshing drinks in a jiffy on any occasion.

Ginger ale, well chilled, is an excellent refresher at any time, and it mixes well with almost any fruit juice. A scoop of vanilla ice cream in a glass of ginger ale is a truly delicious drink. For an afternoon party, here is a good drink.

Five O'Clock Cooler

- 2 cups tea infusion
- 1/4 cup mint jelly
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice, sweetened
- Green food coloring
- Pale dry ginger ale
- Fresh mint

Pour hot tea over jelly and sugar; stir until dissolved. Add grapefruit juice and coloring; chill. Divide among 8 tall glasses. Add ice cold ginger ale. Stir gently to mix. Top each with a spray of mint.
