Defense Bond Sales Reflect Steady Trend

The steady trend in U. S. defense bond sales in Oregon continued through the month of October, as series E defense bond purchases equalled last year's sales.

Jeff Carter, county chairman, reported state-wide sales of $2,119,949 in series E bonds and county sales of $18,337.00. Total state-wide defense bond purchases in all series amounted to $2,358,867.

Carter said that continued accumulation of savings through defense bonds by thrifty citizens is a reflection of their desire to provide for financial emergencies and opportunities in the future. "The backlog of future purchasing power represented in defense bond holdings," he pointed out, "will further our efforts to help insure a stabilized economy in every community."
