STATE CREDIT ON "IF" BASE

Oregon's financial structure spanning the 1953-55 biennium has a monumental IF at either end with a war threat shadow over the whole.

IF Number 1—If the Eisenhower "cut for economy" program develops to the extent that federal funds to the states are lopped off. IF Number 2—If state income revenues shrink during the biennium.

If and when these things happen taxes on property will have to be levied to pay for spending done when our heads were in the clouds at the peak of unheard of prosperity.

State spending is still in high. No one is any more apprehensive of these threats than they were about a depression in 1928.

The 1953-1955 state budget has been cut from $209,000,000 to $189,000,000 by Harry Dorman, director of the department of finance. However that $209,000,000 figure was the total asked for by many department heads who work the old statute of liberty play, "ask for a lot and take less if you have to."

TO SEE THE BIG SHOW
For the first time in history Oregon is to be officially represented at a presidential inauguration.

The governor and Mrs. Patterson will fly to Washington, D. C. on January 16 in time to attend the reception for governors observing the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower Jan. 20.

Governor Patterson will ride on a ticket paid for with state funds provided for in the governor's expense account. He will pay for Mrs. Patterson's ticket from the Patterson budget.

State Senator Eugene Marsh, McMinnville, who will be president of the senate when the legislature convenes in Salem Jan. 12, will as governor until Patterson returns.

UNDER THE ITCHING PALMS
An unconfirmed report that the 1953 legislature will pay its help higher wages than were paid two years ago brought many more applicants than there were jobs.

From The County Agent's Office

By N. C. Anderson

Many ranchers have been asking how to winter weaner calves that they are holding over. With feed prices high, everyone wants to winter their cattle as economically as possible in order that they may have some profit to show, especially since the price of beef is so low at this time. Contrary to the thoughts of many, it is not necessary for the calves to be fed heavily. It order to make proper growth, they should have around three-fourths to one pound digestible protein daily and seven to eight pounds of total digestible nutrients. Too, they will lose their baby fat on this ration, and they will grow and put 75 to 100 pounds of growth during the winter. A ration of ten to twelve pounds daily of alfalfa hay will take care of their needs. Straw and cotton seed meal cubes will also do the job. Successful wintering of calves and yearlings has been carried on at the Union Experiment Station, using wheat straw and one pound of cotton meal per animal Attaches of the Senate and House will be selected Sunday, January 11.

Senate President-res judica Eugene Marsh and Speaker of the House-cinch Rudy Wilhelm have called for caucuses of their republican cohorts.

The senators will hold their caucus at 2 p. m. at the State Capitol and members of the House of Representatives will caucus at the Senator Hotel at 8 p. m.

NEW LAW COMMITTEE
State Representative Rudy Wilhelm reports he will name Representative Carl H. Francis chairman of both the Judiciary Committee and a new committee to be known as the Statute Revision Committee. This committee will replace the Revision of Laws Committee.

CHIEF JUSTICE LATOURETTE
Associate Justice Earl C. Latourette was named Saturday as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Oregon for a two-year term beginning Jan. 5.

Justice Latourette is a native of Oregon, born in Oregon City in 1889, was selected as All-Northwest quarterback in 1912, admitted to the Oregon State Bar in 1913, appointed to Circuit Court Judge for Clackamas County in 1931 by Governor A. L. Norblad and later re-elected for two terms and appointed to the supreme court bench in 1950 by Governor Douglas McKay.

He was named chief justice following the death of Justice Arthur D. Hay who was scheduled to become chief justice January 1.

Justice Harold J. Warner will become acting chief justice to serve in the absence of the chief justice.

SPRAGUE RESIGNS
Former Governor Charles A. Sprague, publisher of the Salem Oregon Statesman, arrived home Saturday having flown from New York where he served two months as alternate delegate to the United Nations.

He said he is resigning from his U. N. post as he thinks President elect Eisenhower may want to select U. N. delegates of his choice. Sprague, who was appointed by President Truman, served on important committees.

He expressed disappointment that the U. N. had failed to find a solution to the Korean war.

JUSTICE PERRY SWORN IN
Circuit Judge William C. Perry of Pendleton was sworn in as justice of the state supreme court Friday following his appointment by Governor Paul Patterson, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Arthur Hay.

He was appointed to the circuit court bench of the six judicial district by Governor Douglas McKay in 1950.

TIME TO PULL TOGETHER!

which can develop around 400 pounds pressure to get good penetration and thorough coverage. With the long hair livestock have now, it is necessary that you wet it thoroughly to the skin.

The grub control season will start soon, too. Perhaps not until February, depending on our weather conditions. Everyone should be on the look-out for them and can tell by running their hand over the backs to find when the grubs are ready to spray. Pressure sprayers that develop up to 400 pounds do a good job. However, good work can be done with as low as 200 pounds. Five percent Rotonone should be used at the rate of seven pounds per hundred gallon. It will be necessary to spray them over the backs, thoroughly wetting, which should take about one gallon of spray material per mature animal. If your livestock have a heavy covering of winter hair, you may need to use greater quantities, up to one and one-half gallons per mature animal. Tests carried on during the past year, shows that spraying for grubs resulted in an average kill of three out of every four grubs embedded in the backs of the animal. It is the fourth grub that is not killed by the first spraying that would necessitate a second and sometimes a third spraying, depending on the number of grubs that continue to come back. With at least two different species found in Morrow county cattle it has been found necessary to spray two or three times, spacing the spraying at intervals from four to six weeks apart.

er the records you have kept during the past year have been sufficient. We all hate to see the holidays end because it does mean income tax reporting time. With income tax reports becoming a little more difficult and exacting each year, good records are a necessity. The Oregon Farm Record book, the Oregon Cash Record book and the Oregon Farm Inventory Record book are designed to help all farmers keep a better set of records. This is the time of year that you should be getting your copies. They are available at cost at the county agent's office. So with this task out of the way, I wish each and every one of you a Happy New Year.

Sportsmanlike DRIVING

FORCE OF IMPACT

WATCH YOUR SPEED

Speed makes collisions bad. The force with which you strike a solid object increases as the square of your speed.

In a collision, your car hits 4 times as hard if you double your speed, nine times as hard if you triple your speed, says the AAA driver training book, "Sportsmanlike Driving."

Let the punch of this little man on the left represent your car's striking force at 20 miles per hour. Double your speed to 40 miles, and the punch is that of the big, middle man—4 times as damaging. Go 60 miles per hour, or 3 times as fast, and the punch is 9 times as great! Like that of the brutal giant on the right!

This is why your chances of being killed or injured, or of killing, injuring, or doing heavy damage, shoot way up when you push down on the accelerator pedal and speed up your car.

Watch speed! It gives you a giant's brutal power.
