Pineapple Makes A Delicious Brown Betty

Golden pineapple brown betty is a quick and easy refreshing dessert for winter days.

Spicy brown betty is always a favorite dessert and you'll really pamper your family if you make it with luscious golden pineapple. The wonderful delicate, fruity tang of the fragrant pineapple tidbits gives the pudding a tantalizing flavor that's irresistible. It's a quick to make dessert, too, because the pineapple is ready to spoon from the can right into the baking dish with no peeling or cutting, so all you have to do is add the sweetened and bread crumbs. Little golden flowers of tidbits decorate the top, making the dessert inviting and festive enough for informal entertaining. You can serve it warm or cold, plain or with a topping of light cream and it's a hearty, not too sweet dessert, perfect for winter meals.

You'll be able to serve all kinds of delicious jiffy desserts when you have a supply of the various styles of pineapple on hand. Pineapple slices or chunks, served alone or with crisp cookies is a refreshing dessert, and heated crushed pineapple spooned over squares of plain white cake gives a new flavor twist to cottage-pudding.

PINEAPPLE BROWN BETTY

- 2 cups (#2 can) pineapple tidbits
- 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 tps. grated lemon peel
- 1/2 cup pineapple syrup

Drain pineapple and save 1/2 cup of the syrup. Place half of the pineapple in a 1 1/2 quart casserole. Combine bread crumbs, sugar and cinnamon and sprinkle 1/2 of the mixture over pineapple and dot with 1 tbsps. of the butter or margarine. Repeat with remaining pineapple, crumbs and butter. Sprinkle top with lemon peel and pour pineapple syrup over. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for 45 minutes. Serves 6.

By Anna Goode

Stoles are still high fashion news and, therefore, make wonderful Christmas presents. The ones for after five are particularly pretty. Some are embroidered with pearls and sequins. Others are in pretty pastels with two carnations at each end. These have matching bags made of all-carnations.

Here's a cake to bake and enjoy during the holidays: Mix 1 c. prepared mince-meat, 1 c. chopped walnuts, 1 tsp. vanilla, 1 tbs. rum flavoring. Blend 1 c. real mayonnaise, 1 1/2 c. buttermilk. Over mixture, sift 3 c. sifted flour, 1 1/2 c. sugar, 3/4 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. salt. Add grated rind of 1 orange; mix thoroughly. Stir in mince-meat mixture. Line bottom of 9-inch tube pan with brown paper, pour in batter. Bake at 325° F. for 2 hours. This cake keeps wonderfully in the refrigerator.

A fireplace mantle can be prettily and economically decorated with snowy white boughs, like this: spray boughs with a liquid white shoe polish (use a household spray.) Bank them on the mantle and dramatize with red candles.

Kill the chill with this delightful beverage: Combine 1 quart apple juice, 1 lemon, sliced, its grated rind, 10 to 12 cloves, 2 sticks (3 in.) cinnamon in a saucepan. Bring juice to a boil and boil gently 5 minutes. Stir in 2 tablespoons vitaminized margarine until melted, strain and serve piping hot.

A touch of glamour and glitter for a black winter coat is a pretty rhinestone pin clipped to one of the sleeve cuffs.

Some armchair sage made this comment about insurance. "This large print giveth, and the small print taketh away."

To a surprising extent, this remark is true. The large print on the first page of a policy does not set forth the coverages, the amounts, and the cost. The small print that follows brings out the exclusions, the modifications, the exact responsibilities of the company and the Assured.

Naturally, all of these details cannot be outlined in a few words. So the fine print is necessary. A thorough reading will prevent misunderstandings and court disputes. But, since an insurance policy is a legal contract, it is phrased in legal terms. That makes it hard to understand and interpret.

That's where we come in. At any time we will explain the meaning of any unfamiliar phrases, review the exact coverages offered and also the limitations. But we'll translate the policy into more familiar language—words you'll understand.

A final thought: Read your policies, or at least be sure you KNOW what's in them!

Let us help you!
