

LIVESTOCK ASSOCIATION COMMITTEES DISCUSS RANGE, GAME LAW CHANGES

Two additional committees of the Morrow County Livestock Growers Ass'n., not previously reported, started active programs for 1953, during the past week. These were the Pasture and Range Improvement and Game Law Committees.

On Friday evening, the Pasture and Range Improvement Committee met with all members present. E. R. Jackman, Farm Crops Specialist, Oregon State College, discussed demonstrations in adapted legumes and grasses for dryland pastures, with arrange-monstrations throughout Morrow County. Seed of these new alfalfas are being secured by E. R. Jackman, with seed now made available for a 150 acre seeding at the Delbert Emert ranch, and a 30 acre seeding at the Oscar Peterson ranch, both Ione. Several ranchers have expressed their desire to seed demonstration pastures of this kind next year and are preparing seedbeds for these seedings during the year.

The committee agreed upon several projects to sponsor and promote during the year as a part of their activities. They will sponsor a range and pasture tour in late spring to see various range conditions, pasture seedings and grass-legume nurseries.

A "Grassman of the Year" program was adopted, grass-legume nurseries, such as put out in past years' by the county agent, supported for continuation and expansion. Plans were made to request from the State Highway Commission and County Court, seeding of highway right-of-ways to crested wheat whenever new construction or disturbing present roadways. Seeding of such right-of-ways will accomplish many things including erosion control, fire safety, weed control, appearance and ease of maintenance.

Members of the Range and Pasture Improvement Committee are: Steve Thompson, chairman; Jack Hynd, Jr.; Newt O'Hara; Oscar Peterson; and W. W. Weatherford. Others present at the meeting besides Mr. Jackman, were Herbert Hynd, Donald Peterson, Eugene Peterson, Don Robinson, and N. C. Anderson, secretary.

Members of the Game Law Committee met at the County Agent's office on Monday of this week with chairman Gerald Swagert, Claude Buschke, Luke Bibby, Howard Cleveland, Herbert Hynd, Dr. L. D. Tibbles, and N. C. Anderson, attending. Among committee actions taken by the group were requests that the entire state be open to hunting at the same time, thereby, avoiding heavy concentrations of hunters in one area; requirements for written permission from owners of 50% of the land involved before special hunting seasons are declared; more vigorous game and fish law enforcements, which would include more road blocks on highways and trails; revoking hunting and fishing licenses in cases of trespass with no respect for signs and private property by cutting fences and leaving gates open.

Quite some discussion on methods of avoiding livestock and property losses by outside hunters was held. The group went on record as favoring a local or county game protective association such as are used in some areas. This would permit issuing hunting and fishing permits to sportsmen with trespass cases then vigorously enforced. The group asked that everyone become acquainted with the game laws and to assist in their enforcement by reporting violations.

Recommendations of these committees will be made at a meeting of all livestock men, which is scheduled to be held at the Courtroom in Heppner, on January 28.

There will also be a free lunch served at noon.

Need For Proper Registration Told By Selective Service

Oregon state headquarters, Selective Service System, announced today that young men, subject to be registered under the Universal Military Training and Service Act of 1951, as amended, could expect very little consideration in the matter of their delinquency.

"Local boards throughout Oregon," said Colonel Francis W. Mason, deputy state director, "almost daily are reporting the registration of one or more men who should have registered from two or three months to as much as three years ago.

Colonel Mason continued that there has been some misinformation given out where reservists have been erroneously advised that they were not required to register and therefore, although there has been ample publicity given to the requirements of the act, some consideration of these circumstances will be given.

"However, where it is evident that failure to register has been caused by wilful neglect or sheer carelessness," stated Colonel Mason, "Local boards will have no alternative but to act pursuant to Selective Service Regulations which provide that such a man shall be declared a delinquent and be subject to immediate induction."

Colonel Mason concluded with the suggestion that it would be most advisable for any young man required to register, who had not done so, to immediately present himself for such registration and that anyone knowing of such a case would be actually doing the individual a favor if the matter was made known to the Selective Service System.

Open House Scheduled For Mobile Soil Testing Laboratory

Edwin F. Knettle, owner and operator of Knettle Farm Management Service, and Warren G. Marshall, head agronomist of this service organization, are offering a special program covering soil testing, use of fertilizer, and related topics Wednesday, Jan. 28 afternoon starting promptly at 1:15 p. m. at the Star Theater in Heppner.

The program will consist of technical sound films on soil testing and fertilizing, followed by a panel discussion concerning what the individual farm operator may expect from soil testing.

Following the first portion of the program, open house will be held in the mobile soil testing laboratory used by the Knettle Farm Management Service. This is the only such mobile laboratory in operation west of the Mississippi river. The purpose of this display is to enable all those interested to learn the whys, hows, and whys of soil testing and to observe the equipment and apparatus in operation.

Following the open house of the laboratory, a panel discussion will be conducted that will include N. C. Anderson and Tom Wilson, Morrow county agricultural agent and Soil Conservation Service head, Knettle, and Marshall. At this time the program will be open for those who desire to ask questions about soil testing and similar topics.

The program is sponsored as a public service feature by the Knettle Farm Management Service. The public is cordially invited to this free program, which is scheduled to begin at 1:15 p. m.

First National Adds Director to Board

At their annual meeting January 20, stockholders of the First National Bank of Portland voted to add an additional member to its board of directors, increasing the total number comprising the board to 23 members, it was announced by F. N. Belgrano, Jr., President of the statewide banking system. All directors were reelected and Leonard Carpenter, an outstanding leader in Southern Oregon's fruit growing industry and resident of Medford for many years, was elected as the new member of the board.

A native of New York City, Carpenter graduated from Harvard University in 1904 and moved to Medford in 1909. In 1913 he was an instructor on the staff of Oregon Agricultural college in Corvallis. He is credited with planting one of the first large orchards in Jackson county, where he is well known among the area's orchardists. He is also vice president of Pierce Freight Lines, operating in Oregon and California.

Bill Smythe, field representative of the State Public Welfare Commission, Portland, spent Friday in Heppner attending to matters of business.

Mrs. Elbert L. Cox has returned from Portland and The Dalles where she spent the past two weeks visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Clara B. Gertson left Wednesday for Portland where she will spend several days in the State office of the Welfare Commission. Mrs. Gertson is serving this year as a member of the policy committee for the State Public Welfare Commission.

Mrs. Omer Luttrell returned to her home in Hermiston Monday after spending the weekend in Heppner. During her visit she was the houseguest of Mrs. Sadie M. Sigsbee.

Miss Apollonia Olson, director of Public Health nursing for Oregon State Board of Health made her official visit in Heppner and Morrow County this week conferring with Miss Martha Tapanainen, public health nurse in Morrow county.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stager made a business trip to Hermiston the first part of the week and while there visited Mrs. Stager's grandmother, Mrs. Eva McProut. From Hermiston they motored to Stanfield where they visited Mrs. Stager's sister, Mrs. Alfred Voss.

Fred Butterfield of Roseburg, formerly of Heppner, broke his right ankle while at work, Jan. 8, and will have his foot in a cast from four to six weeks.

Lloyd Deaver and Jack Glavey were Heppner business visitors this week from the Glavey ranch on Rhea creek.

Mrs. Mary Glavey has been spending some time at the home of her daughter Miss Marguerite Glavey.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitmer Wright and Harvey ad Miss Colleen Bailey spent Sunday in Moses Lake, Washington with Mr. and Mrs. James Wright.

LOCAL IMPLEMENT DEALER ANNOUNCES JOHN DEERE DAY DATE

All Farmers and Their Families Invited

If there is one key Buster Keaton owns, it's the key to an audience's sense of humor. This is a scene from "Paradise for Buster," John Deere Day feature picture.

Empire Machinery Co., local John Deere dealer, has announced Tuesday Feb. 17, as the date for this year's John Deere Day program. Free to farmers and their families, the program will be held at Star Theater and is scheduled to begin at 1:30.

The feature picture, "Paradise for Buster," is a comedy and stars Buster Keaton, popular clown of stage and screen. The story is that of a small bookkeeper in a large firm who suddenly comes to the notice of the firm's head in a most uncomplimentary manner. His rare knack of getting in trouble dogs Buster in and out of every scene and furnishes some exciting moments for him and his audience.

Other films included on the program are "Tom Gordon Goes Modern," the story of the new John Deere Models "50" and "60" tractors; "Costly Bargains," a picture showing how the quality of John Deere parts is maintained; "Oddities in Farming," consisting of scenes of rare farming practices; and "What's New for 1953," unveiling the complete lineup of John Deere equipment for the coming year, showing this equipment at work in the field and demonstrating briefly all outstanding features.

Mr. Bob Grabill, in his announcement, mentioned that although the program is free to farmers and their families, admission will be by ticket only. He invites farmers who have not received their tickets, or who require more, to be sure to stop at the store, Empire Machinery and ask for them.

There will also be a free lunch served at noon.

Irene Dodd, at work in the traffic office at Albany, Oregon, where she assists in the supervision of some 90 telephone operators.

IRENE DODD—YOUNG LADY GOING PLACES

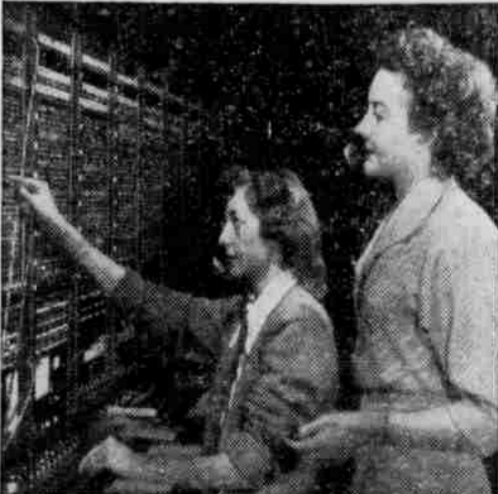

In just a few years, she has advanced in the telephone business from student operator to assistant chief

In August, 1943, Irene Dodd came to work for Pacific Telephone as an inexperienced student operator. Since then, she's had several promotions—to operator in charge, supervising operator, and recently to her present position as assistant chief operator. This is a familiar telephone success story. For advancing our telephone men and women as their skill and experience grows is just one more way we work to make your telephone ever more efficient and valuable to you.

A good place to work

One reason why telephone jobs are good jobs is the fact that each year thousands of telephone men and women are promoted to more responsible positions in the hundreds of communities we serve locally here in the Pacific West. Their goal: to help keep your telephone service the finest in the world.

YOUR TELEPHONE IS ONE OF TODAY'S BEST BARGAINS

Every day is exciting for Mrs. Dodd who, like many telephone women, has combined marriage and her career. She enjoys keeping house as much as she enjoys helping people with their telephone calls. Gratifying, too, is the feeling that she is helping new people get ahead in the telephone world. It's all part of telephone tradition—a tradition of service which insures that a well-trained force of men and women stands behind the good telephone service you enjoy every day.
